SKETCHES AT THE LEBLANC TRIAL YESTERDAY

Court Decides That Government Must Prove That Glover Made a Dying Declaration and Whether He Knew He Would Recover or Not

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 28.—The scene background for the trial of Clarence F. Glover, who was mortally shot in his laundry at Waltham a year ago, having been set by giving the jury a view of points of interest, the government proceeded today to lay the plot of its case before the jury and to call the testifying actors on to the legal stage in the old Middlesex county court house at East Cambridge. But before District Attorney Higgins could utter a word to the jury regarding what he hopes to prove against the child-like Cape Breton defendant, there came a word of protest from M. L. Johnson, the leading counsel for the girl, against the mere mention by the district attorney of any "dying statement" by Glover. A good representation of the Middlesex bar was in the enclosure to hear the arguments on this basic point in the government's case, for it was generally believed that on the decision of Judge Bond the question of its admission would have an important bearing on the entire case.

Mr. Johnson contended that until the question of the alleged statement by Glover to the attending surgeon, in which he is said to have implicated Miss LeBlanc in the shooting, was finally settled, the government had no right to even refer to the episode. District Attorney Higgins fell back on long years of procedure in admitting ante-mortem statements.

Judge Bond, who was given an intimation yesterday that this objection would be raised, listened intently today to the arguments while the jury waited away their time in their own room.

Notwithstanding a stiff rainstorm the corridors of the court house were crowded long before the trial began and every seat was taken when the girl was led by her female attendant for the second day of the struggle in which her life is at stake.

Defence is Elated

The defense was considerably elated when Judge Bond ruled that the government must prove to his satisfaction that Glover made a dying statement and also whether he was conscious of recovery just before his death. Judge

Bond ordered the jury excluded until the government's witnesses were heard.

Jury and Witnesses Excluded

Not only were the jurymen kept out of the courtroom but all the witnesses were barred. Miss LeBlanc was quite nervous when her father, who had been sitting close to her, followed the rest of the witnesses out of the room. District Attorney Higgins, after expressing a little surprise at the situation, said that he was prepared for such a decision and had only a few witnesses present. He began, however, by calling a grocery clerk, Herman King, who discovered Glover kneeling on the piazza of Dr. Conzeng's hospital. King said that Glover remarked: "I'm shot; I can't live."

When asked who shot him, Glover said, "A woman." King said he pressed Glover to tell her name but it was only after being asked several times that Glover said: "Hattie LeBlanc," and then gave her address on Main street.

Under cross-examination King could not remember whether Glover had said: "Operate on me quickly or I'm gone."

T. P. Connor, who followed King to the piazza, also heard Glover say that he had been shot by a woman. Connor said he urged Glover to tell who it was. "He seemed to hesitate," said the witness, "but after I repeated the question several times he at last said, 'It was Hattie LeBlanc.' Connor heard Glover say, 'It's all off; I'm going to die.' He helped carry the wounded man into the house and saw

Over the Recount of Votes Cast for Alderman

Mr. Bergeron, the Defeated Candidate, Did Not Ask Recount but Other Candidates Did and MacKenzie Sees a Drive Against Him

The recount that was begun yesterday by the board of registrars was resumed this forenoon. The councilmanic recounts in wards 3, 9, 4 and 8 have been gone through with and there is no material change. The aldermanic recount, thus far, shows a gain of one vote for Bergeron over MacKenzie in wards 3 and 8.

The petition for the recount in the case of Mr. Bergeron was a little out of the ordinary, inasmuch as it was not asked for by Mr. Bergeron himself, but by others whose names appear on the republican list for aldermanic honors, and who were successful in the primaries. Mr. Bergeron stated emphatically that he did not want a recount, and the fact that other republican candidates for alderman asked for it is not very pleasing to Mr. MacKenzie. The latter says that he did not fear the result of the recount, but he allows that inasmuch as Mr. Bergeron did not want it there was no reason why other candidates should ask for it. Mr. MacKenzie looks upon it as a sort of drive against him.

Special Meetings Tonight

Mayor Meehan has called special meetings of both branches of the city council for tonight. The meetings were called for the purpose of taking action on the $1000 recommended by the appropriations committee for a contagious and infectious hospital and also to take action on the ordinance creating a commission of four to have charge of the building. The chairman of the board of aldermen and the president of the common council will serve as a nominating committee to bring in names for the commission. The committee on appropriations will meet at 7 o'clock this evening and will consider the request of department heads for money to piece them out for the rest of the year.

WENT TO JURY

Plourde Case Finished In Superior Court

The testimony in the case of Arthur Plourde against James P. Mooney was concluded yesterday afternoon at the eighth session of the superior court over which Judge Fox is presiding and counsel for the plaintiff and defendant made their arguments. Judge Fox began his charge to the jury, but was unable to complete it before the time for adjournment.

When court convened this morning Judge Fox gave the remainder of the charge and at 10:15 o'clock the jury retired.

An Out-of-Town Case

The next case in order was that of Mary L. Smith against George Edwin Jordan, an action of tort. The plaintiff in her declaration states that on November 22, 1907, she was riding in a carriage on Lexington street, near Beaver street, Waltham, and while in the exercise of due care her carriage was run into from behind and struck by an automobile owned by the defendant.

She avers that the carriage and horse were overturned and she was thrown with great violence to the ground by reason of which she received many serious injuries. She further declares that she was put to a great expense for medical attendance and her horse also received severe injuries.

Jury Waived Session

In the jury waived session of the superior court, Judge Harris presiding, the case of Walter E. Morris against J. Frank Dubois and others, trustee, an action of contract, was taken up. Mr. John J. Devine of the firm of Pratt & Devine appearing for the plaintiff.

The plaintiff claims that the defendants owe him $78. According to the plaintiff's declaration the defendants ran a gasoline engine and sawing outfit for us on a farm in Billerica during November and December, 1908, and January of 1909—78 working days, for which the plaintiff claims he is entitled to $1 per day for the use of the apparatus.

EARL A. THISSELL Commander

Post 42, G. A. R., and Its Present Commander

Hereafter The Sun will publish a series of pictures of society heads beginning with the Grand Army and giving with each a brief sketch of the society.

When the call to arms came at the opening of the Civil war the men of Lowell were among the foremost to respond, a fact of which the martyrdom of Ladd, Whitney and Taylor afford historic proof. After the conclusion of the war the Lowell men who survived the struggle were quite numerous. The companies which left for the front lost many members, while many returned with the scars of battle, some with empty sleeves or wooden legs.

It was to be expected that the men who had risked their lives on the battlefield would organize and accordingly the first post of the Grand Army of the Republic was formed at Springfield, Ill., in 1868.

The B. F. Butler, Post 42, G. A. R. of this city, held its first meeting January 20, 1868. The members had served in a great many regiments all over the country and had figured in practically every great battle of the war. The first place of meeting was in the old Mechanics hall in Dutton street and subsequently the post met at the corner of Market and Central streets, but finally shifted to Memorial hall, in which the meetings are now held on the first Wednesday of each month.

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, for whom the post was named, was mustered in as a comrade in 1885 and was interested in the Grand Army until his death. The members are yearly growing less in number but those who remain are still loyal to the Grand Army and as deeply ever interested in the progress, prosperity and perpetuity of this republic.

The present officers of the post are: Commander, Earl A. Thissell; senior vice commander, John Harrington; junior vice commander, Thomas J. McDonald; adjutant, George E. Worthen; quartermaster, Chester S. Goodwin; surgeon, James P. McCarthy; chaplain, Charles E. Brackett; officer of the day, Peter Leclain; officer of the guard, John Daly.

The list of past commanders is as follows: George A. Marden, Alpha E. Farr, General Fiske, Charles H. Kimball, Charles H. Richardson, Edward W. Thompson, John A. G. Richardson, Albert L. Fisher, George W. Huntton.

Major Charles A. Stott, George W. Worthen, Frank B. Peabody, John J. Dixon, James R. Fulton, Gen. C. A. R. Dixon, William H. L. Hayes, John Welch, Edward T. Rowell and George McIntire.

FUNERAL NOTICE

CHASE—Died in this city, Nov. 28, at 353 Walker st., Mrs. Kate Elizabeth Chase, aged 55 years, 6 months. Funeral from the residence Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Friends invited without further notice. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

ADVANCE IN FREIGHT SUDDEEN DEATHS

Trans-Continental Officials Contemplate 25 P. C. Increase

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Trans-continental railroad officials, in session in Chicago are planning an advance in freight rates between Chicago, New York, Boston, and other eastern points and the Pacific coast. The advance contemplates an increase amounting to 25 and 30 per cent., according to a news article in the Tribune yesterday.

A plan is contemplated which will increase the rate between Chicago and the Pacific coast but will cut down materially the advantage over Chicago, which New York and Atlantic seaboard shippers have enjoyed in the past. The rates from Chicago and New York to the coast heretofore have been the same. Under the proposed schedule not yet endorsed by the interstate commerce commission, the rate from Chicago to the Pacific is raised 50 cents a hundred pounds but New York has a dollar added to the tariff its shippers now pay for freights from there to the Pacific coast.

The trans-continental line are now in conference over their proposed through schedule increase. In their effort they seek shelter under the amendment to the "long and short haul" clause of the interstate commerce law effective Feb. 17. The railroads seek this increase as an alternative. They say they do not want to be forced by the government to reduce their rates to intermediate points in the west, which, in some cases, are higher than the existing through rate to the coast. Alarm in this direction, the roads claim, is justified by the action of the interstate commerce commission, the Spokane rate case where the original rate from eastern points equalled the through rate to coast points, plus the local rate from the coast back to Spokane. The interstate commerce commission reduced the through rate to Spokane first to an equality with that to coast points and later to 10 cents less than that to the coast.

The railroads will ask the interstate commerce commission first to maintain the existing rates. Failing in that they will throw their whole energy into an effort for an increase of existing through rates to the Pacific coast 25 per cent. or over.

A tentative scheme of rates now under consideration advances the first class rate from New York to Pacific coast cities from $3 to $4 per 100 pounds, with corresponding increases on the lower five numbered and five lettered classes. The rate to intermediate points is to be graded between the Harriman lines. Sunday, "Nothing has been decided on and any rates thus far considered merely are tentative."

Joseph Bilodeau Died Suddenly Last Evening

Another sudden death occurred last night when Joseph Bilodeau, aged 38, died at the Lowell General Hospital after an illness of a little less than three hours. Bilodeau, who was a stonecutter by trade, lost consciousness after reaching his home, 63 French street, shortly before 5 o'clock last night. Dr. O'Brien was summoned and he ordered the patient to be removed to the hospital, where he died at 6:30 o'clock.

The body was removed to Undertaker Amedee Archambault's morgue. The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Bilodeau, and several sisters and brothers of Augusta, Me.

Lorenzo, Blanchette, aged 3 years, 6 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blanchette of 18 Gardner avenue, died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his parents. The little one suffered from violent convulsions a month ago, but since then had been apparently well. Yesterday morning the mother on going to the child's crib found that he was dead.

LONG AND SHORT

Odd Pair of Stowaways Discovered in Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The strangest pair of stowaways ever brought to Boston arrived yesterday on the British tank bark Sunlight, which was towed up the harbor late in the afternoon and was taken to the pier of the Boston Molluscs company at South Boston. They were Leonard Matthew, a negro giant, fully 7 feet in height, and John Jacob, also colored, who stood 4 feet 6 inches in his stockings. While the bark was taking on cargo at San Pedro de Macoris, San Domingo, Matthew and Jacob, who belong in Macoris, stole on board and hid in one of the lifeboats. Jacob, who was about 14 years of age, was the first to enter into the country and will have to go back when the bark leaves here. When told they would have to return they did not seem to mind it a bit. Matthew was locked up as he was led to a room to be locked up.

The Sunlight was 36 days on the passage. Up to Cape Hatteras baffling winds and calms kept the vessel from making her usual time. Off Cape Hatteras she ran into a furious gale and before it moderated a section of her spunkier gaff, 10 feet long, was broken off. The distance from Macoris is only 1500 miles.

The Sunlight came around Cape Cod last Friday when the 60-mile-an-hour northeaster was doing things outside. Capt. Crowley edged his way into the bay and worked his vessel into comparatively smooth water about a mile from shore. There the bark remained at anchor until the tug Mercury went out yesterday morning and took her in tow.

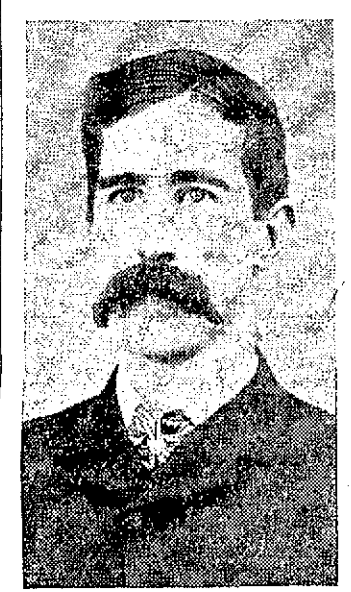

The Sunlight brought in 375,000 gallons of molasses, which will be used for distilling purposes. She also had 100 feet of mahogany.

"Jerry" wife died some time ago and his only living relative is a widow sister who resides in the old homestead in Limerick. "Jerry" intends to spend the remainder of his days with his sister, but they don't play baseball in Ireland and when the sun waves warm again and the boys assemble on the diamond, "Jerry" friends are confident that they will see his smiling face again and hear his gentle, zephyr-like voice. Meanwhile they all unite in wishing him a safe voyage and a happy and prosperous future.

NO HALF FARES

Boston & Northern in Trouble at Lynn

LYNN, Nov. 29.—The alleged refusal of the Boston & Northern street railway to comply with the state statute which provides half rates of fare for the pupils in evening schools will be taken up and prosecuted by the Lynn school board at a meeting tonight.

Oliver Whitcomb, chairman of the evening schools, recently addressed a communication to the officials of the Boston & Northern road in which he called attention to the existence of the statute in question and the officials of the road replied that after conferring with their counsel the company feels that it is within its rights in failing to grant the half rates of fare. Mr. Whitcomb has referred the matter to Mayor Ritchie, who in turn has instructed City Solicitor Wadleigh to give the school department any assistance it requires in the enforcement of the provisions of the statute.

The school department officials declared today that they were prepared to carry the question to the Massachusetts supreme court to determine the constitutionality of the statute.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various remedies, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using hair preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, finally, I found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in any form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all his hair to its natural color. You can obtain this preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, 1/2 drachm; Lavone de Composee, 2 oz.; if you like, perfume, add a few drops of To-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary.

Be sure to ask the druggist for all the ingredients in the Lavone de Composee package. One of them entitles you to a handsome free spriggle for your hair tonic bottle and you are also entitled to receive the free advice of an expert on the hair by simply writing to the address you will find enclosed in the carton.

Apply night and morning: rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your druggist and ask for an eight ounce bottle containing six ounces of Bay Rum; also one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Lavone de Composee. Mix the ingredients yourself at your own home. Add the Menthol Crystals to the Bay Rum and then pour in the Lavone de Composee and add the To-Kalon Perfume. Let it stand one-half hour and it is ready for use.

Riker-Jaynes Drug company, the well known and popular druggists of this city, have filed this formula for the satisfaction of their patrons and state that they have found it necessary to make special provision to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

And Captured Atlantic Port of Honduras

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Nov. 29.—Advices today from Tegucigalpa state that the Atlantic ports of Honduras and the department of Comayagua have been captured by revolutionists under the leadership of former President Manuel Bonilla. Government forces sent to retake the territory joined the enemy.

General Bonilla attempted an unsuccessful revolt against the government of President Davila last summer. Later he sought refuge in Guatemala from which country he was deported. Recently he was reported to be in New Orleans organizing an expedition which was to attack the Atlantic coast of Honduras. Bonilla's cause was helped somewhat by the rebellion of Gen. Jose Valladares, the governor of the island of Amapala. The latter was recently deposed and came to this country.

TOLSTOI'S SON

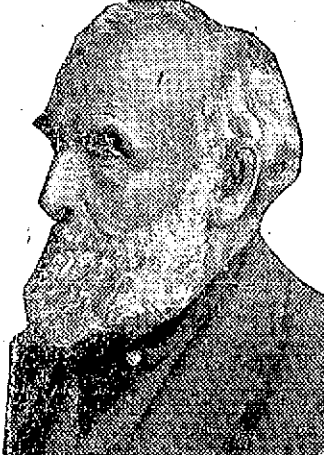

Bitterly Denounces His Father's Friend

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—Count Leo Tolstoy publishes a bitter denunciation of Count Tschertkoff, the literary friend and agent of the late Count Tolstoy. The son declares that Tschertkoff was the worst enemy his father had in all educated Russia and the civilized world and that he was directly guilty of the tragedy of Yasnaya Polyana. "The malignant influence of Tschertkoff," writes Count Leo, "caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family."

But for his literary agent, the son adds, his father would have lived for many years peacefully at Yasnaya Polyana with the family who loved him and whom he loved devotedly.

TAFT A PILGRIM

President Descended From One of Mayflower's Passengers

Was Presented Certificate of Membership of Society of Mayflower Descendants at Banquet in Washington Last Evening

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Taft, one of the Pilgrims who came to the Mayflower, and a certificate of membership in the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia last night, the occasion being the celebration of the 290th anniversary of the signing of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower. President Taft, it was recently learned, is a descendant of Francis Cooke, one of those who came over in the Mayflower, and a certificate of membership will be given him by the president of the local society, ex-Associate Justice Henry Brown of the United States supreme court, toastmaster of the evening.

Mayflower," said the president. "Time was when I thought those who came over in the Mayflower plumed themselves as belonging to the aristocracy of the nation. On the contrary, I believe now that they showed a humility and proper spirit of republicanism and democracy."

Speaking of the reason why the landing of the Pilgrims was so important in the early history of the United States, President Taft said it was because the Pilgrims were among the first who "landed and stuck in that country of pleasant summer residences—New England."

"They showed the uses and needs of a written constitution," he continued. "They showed a great capacity for self-government, that without making invidious comparisons, has lent moral fibre and moral duty to the whole settlement of the United States."

HANK GRIFFIN

DISLOCATED SHOULDER IN BOUT WITH O'KELLY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Hank Griffin, a giant negro from the west, whom Coach O'Kelly, Tommy Ryan's protégé, recently met in a boxing ring at Utica, had his shoulder dislocated in the second round of a second battle with O'Kelly here last night. The injury came during a hard clinch on the ropes. Griffin concealed the gravity of his injury from his seconds, though went on for two rounds more, though in evident distress. Early in the fourth round, while O'Kelly was knocking Griffin about the ring, the negro's seconds threw up the sponge.

DREXEL HAS NOT RECORD FOR ALTITUDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The national council of the Aero Club of America is credited by the New York American with finding that J. Armstrong Drexel is still beneath the world's altitude record for an airplane established at Belmont park by Ralph Johnstone, and that the corrected barograph reading of his flight at Philadelphia last Wednesday gives only 9450 feet against Johnstone's mark of 9714. Drexel has hitherto been credited with 9770 feet. The ink gave out in his barograph and he believes himself that he went higher than 10,000. It is understood that he will try again.

The gift was made two weeks ago but it was not until yesterday that President Taylor was given by Mrs. Sage permission to make it public.

The new building is very much needed, as a great many students are living off the campus.

SHOT HIMSELF

Embezzler Tufts of the Rockport Bank Suicides

ROCKPORT, Nov. 29.—Appearing at the residence of former President Loring Grimes of the Rockport National bank, late yesterday afternoon, George W. Tufts, former cashier of that institution, who was under indictment for alleged misappropriation of the bank's funds and was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity, before being sentenced, called Mr. Grimes to the door and after a short conversation, shot himself dead with a big Derringer revolver, dropping on the doorstep at Mr. Grimes' feet.

His act was sudden. Mr. Grimes had no opportunity to prevent it. With an abrupt move, the former cashier pulled open his coat, then his vest, flung against his heart, fired one shot, which caused death almost instantly. Mr. Grimes summoned Dr. A. M. Tupper and then the police. The body was taken to an undertaker's and the suicide's widow and son were notified.

Mr. Grimes' wife was Tufts' aunt. The Grimes home, at Main and Cleave streets, is only a few minutes' walk from the Tufts residence. Mr. Tufts left town yesterday morning, without telling anyone where he was going. He returned on a late afternoon train and walked to the Grimes house, coming from the direction of Gloucester.

Mr. Tufts was 52 years old. For 25 years he had been one of the most prominent figures in Rockport. He came into the Rockport National bank from the cotton mill and worked up to cashier, although the salary paid never exceeded $1000 annually. He took an active part in the town meetings and was a ready, snappy debater. About ten years ago he was elected town treasurer, which position he held for two years. For one year he was a selectman. During that period he had a controversy with Chief of Police John Sullivan, exacting a stringent enforcement of the liquor law and personally assuming control of the force.

Mr. Tufts lived simply and his only fads were chicken raising and gardening. Although a severe man in his criticism of others, he had always been held above suspicion as regards his personal integrity or his arrest last July on a charge of defalcation took the town by surprise.

COURT ON TRAIN

JUDGE THORNTON HEARD CASE ON THE WING

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Passengers on a train between Port Jervis and Binghamton yesterday were treated to an odd scene when W. L. Thornton, judge and surrogate of Sullivan county, held surrogate court between these two points as the train was on its way.

Judge Thornton had made arrangements to hear the will case of the late George W. Gould of Long Eddy, and when he was called suddenly to Binghamton he decided to hold court on the train.

Accordingly, the Gould heirs and their attorneys joined him at Port Jervis and by the time the train had left the station the party was in the midst of the proceedings, which continued to within a short distance of Binghamton. Judge Thornton promised to give a decision within two weeks. The value of the estate is about $200,000.

STOWAWAYS

CAPTURED ON FRUIT VESSEL AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 29.—Suspected of attempting illegally to enter this country, two Chinese stowaways were found yesterday by immigration officials hiding in a cargo of bananas in the hold of the Norwegian steamship Juan, which reached here yesterday from Port Antonio, Jamaica. They were taken to the local immigration department, where they will have a hearing. Captain Larsen and the crew of the Juan will appear before the officials to tell what they know about the Chinamen.

GRAHAME WHITE

WILL OPEN AVIATION SCHOOL IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 29.—Plans for an intercollegiate glider meet next June and the erection of an inclined plane at the Atlantic field in Squantum for the launching of gliders were discussed last night at the second annual meeting of the Harvard Aeronautical society at Harvard union.

Adams Claffin, manager of the recent Harvard-Boston aero meet, announced that Claude Grahame-White, the British aviator, would next summer open an aviation school in Boston.

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: President, Prof. A. Lawrence Roth; vice-president, J. V. Martin; secretary, E. C. Brown; treasurer, Arthur Sweetser, '11.

SISTER'S SANITY

IS THE PRICE OF HOLT'S FREEDOM

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Sobbing bitterly as he answered the questions of his attorney, John Holt, 23, of Roxbury, when arraigned in the superior criminal court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Sable E. Singleton, colored, declared to Judge Stevens that upon the outcome of his trial hinged not only the sanity of his 19-year-old sister, but the welfare of his father and mother, who depend upon him for support.

The young man said his arrest had led to the breaking down of his sister's mental faculties, and that she is under treatment in an institution, haunted by the fear he would be incarcerated in jail. That, he said, he feared, for the court, are in ill health, and his father is unable to do any work.

Judge Stevens called the district attorney to the bench and conferred with him. Holt was excused until today, when he will know his fate.

SOUTH HADLEY, Nov. 29.—An announcement has been made by the faculty of Mount Holyoke college for the abolition of the secret societies existing among the students. This decree will not become effective at once, but with the admission of members of 1911 to the societies, they will cease to perpetuate themselves by the election of new members.

ULSTER FACTION

Says It Will Not Obey Dublin Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 29.—With the dissolution of parliament yesterday all formalities preliminary to the election of a new parliament were completed. The proclamation of dissolution summoned the new parliament to assemble on January 31, 1911. Among the first of its members to be elected unopposed was Arthur J. Balfour, the opposition leader, the liberals having decided not to contest his seat for the city of London. On the stock exchange, where regular dealings have been instituted in bets on the election, the feeling yesterday seemed to anticipate a reduction in the liberal majority in Ireland and the unionist majority in Ulster. A meeting of delegates representing every Ulster constituency was held in Belfast yesterday, at which a resolution was adopted on motion of a Presbyterian minister, to draw up a solemn declaration refusing to pay money or taxes imposed by a Dublin parliament. The Ulster men into regiments and purchase arms.

At night a monster union demonstration was held at Ulster hall, Belfast, an overflow meeting of 20,000 people being held in the open air. Both aroused the greatest enthusiasm. Lord Londonderry said that American dollars enabled John Redmond to hold Asquith in the hollow of his hand. If Ulster, he said, it might be found that Ulster would utterly decline obedience to the law.

Sir Edward Carson, former solicitor-general, and Conservative M. P. for Dublin, said they never would consent to their country being sold for American dollars.

Walter Hume Long, Unionist M. P. for Strand, spoke in the same strain, and other speakers advocated stern resistance to the law if home rule was forced upon Ulster.

The first independent woman suffrage candidate is announced in the person of a prominent advocate, William Mirrless, who will contest a division of Glasgow. The socialist party has decided to run a third candidate in Betersea, thus seriously endangering John Burns' chance of reelection.

Suffragists created serious disturbances at a meeting at Lambeth last night at which Winston Spencer Churchill was speaking. After several men had been thrown out Mr. Churchill strongly denounced the suffragist tactics and said: "I am told that individuals are to be singled out for violence. If that is their language, there is only one answer, and that is 'come on.'"

PISTOL DUEL

POLICEMAN AND BURGLAR ARE KILLED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—During a pistol duel at 42d and Pine streets last night, Policeman Burnett was shot through the spine and died in the University hospital, and an unknown man, supposed to be a burglar, was shot and killed.

Burnett was in civil dress, and had been sent to watch the locality because a number of burglaries recently were committed there.

At 40th and Pine streets he saw two men who aroused his suspicions and followed them. They separated at 42nd street and he followed one who entered an alley. When he began to question the man, the latter drew a revolver and shot him through the body. As the policeman fell he drew his own pistol and fired two shots at his fleeing assailant. The latter dropped dead with bullets in his hip and abdomen. The dead man was about 25 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. The tags had been carefully removed from his tailor-made garments but his raincoat was of a Philadelphia make and the shoes had been made in Boston. He had $162 in his pockets. The policeman was removed to the hospital in an automobile which had been attracted to the scene by the shots. The body of the dead man was taken to the morgue.

DRUGGISTS' BANQUET

A. M. Dows and Sam McCord, who are members of the Boston Druggists' association, will attend a banquet at Young's hotel this evening, and Dr. Attorney Higgins will address the members. His subject will be "The Treatment of Criminals."

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

KRAMER AND RUTT ENTERED IN THREE CORNERED BICYCLE RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Widespread interest is being taken in the three cornered bicycle race for the world's indoor sprinting championship to be held in Madison Square Garden here Dec. 3. Frank Kramer, who has held the title in this country for the past ten years; Walter Rutt of Germany, who has taken the measure of all the European cracks, and Jack Clarke, the famous little Australian short distance champion, form the trio of starters in this great match. The race is to be run in heats, best two out of three or best three out of four if a fourth is necessary. The first heat will be at one-half mile, the second at a mile, and the others to be decided by the toss of a coin. Kramer and Clarke have had several bitter duels during the last summer season around the circuit, comprising Vallsburg, N. J., Boston, New Haven, Conn., and Providence, R. I. They are both at the Newark track now in training for the coming race. In addition to riding in this event, Clarke and Rutt will teamed with Floyd McFarland and the both participants in the six day latter again having as partner the grind to start Dec. 4, the former being sturdy Holland champion, John Stol.

MAYOR MEEHAN

Got a Rousing Reception at the Machine Shop Gate

Dealt With Administration of His

Republican Opponent and Asked Him to Explain What Happened and MacBrayne Meant When They Said They Could Not Continue to Hold Office Under Him and Maintain Their Self Respect

More than 1200 people, including a generous sprinkling of the fair sex, heard Mayor John F. Meehan at the Lowell Machine shop between the noon hour and 1 o'clock yesterday, and the mayor supplied the men with a whole lot to think about before casting their ballots at the city election on Tuesday, December 13. It was one of the biggest out-door rallies ever held at the big shop and it was plain to be seen that the crowd was with the mayor.

Several times during his speech he was interrupted by applause and he had finished, three cheers were given with a vengeance. Mayor Meehan got a rousing reception and handled his opponent without gloves.

His Honor said that when his republican opponent was mayor it was a case of the city being run by a committee of the year, and that instead of saving the city money he had cost the city more than $4000 on one item alone, that of the removal of the police board.

He called upon his republican opponent to tell the people why it was that the two commissioners appointed by him felt obliged to resign and to state in their letter of resignation that they could no longer remain in office under him and maintain their self-respect.

In part he said: "I am glad to open my campaign here at the gate of the big shop where I opened my campaign of a year ago. I have been your mayor for one year and I come to you today with an accounting of my stewardship. A great deal depends upon the voters in the coming election, and I sincerely hope that they will pursue the right course. You know the kind of administration my republican opponent gave you when he was mayor, and you know the kind of administration I have given you.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Songs men go back and subsequently come back while others go back and fall to come back but Lew Dockstader and Carroll Johnson, bless their good natured and care-free souls, have never gone back but like old wine, only mellow with age and each year appear more attractive than before.

Lew and his melodious minstrels appeared at the Opera House last evening before a decent sized house, although a little top-heavy, and everyone went away happy as usual. The minstrel show is annually losing its identity but last night's presentation had a graceful blending of the old with the new that pleased mightily.

Instead of the old fashioned first part and after-piece Lew introduces the minstrels in a two-part musical comedy entitled "The Pussam Hunt Club Revue." The play has its little plot and it is a plot that admits of a feast of fun, handed out as only the inimitable Lew can hand it.

The opening scene presented the doings of the club on the eve of the departure of one of its members, who was to accompany the Roosevelt party to Africa. Prof. Lew Dockstader, despite his earnest protestations, is chosen as the official representative to the African jungles most successful. Ever his departure he meets the voodoo man and is given a bottle of voodoo water, which causes him to dream out the doings of the proposed trip, and in this way he is issued the inconvenience of "how south." The dream develops and with it many interesting and well as laughable incidents which carry the show and entertained through two hours of solid fun. The ending has a climax in the awakening of the professor and a recital of his supposed experiences.

In the opening act, the members of the club introduce numerous musical numbers by Messrs. Charles J. Raymond, Charles J. O'Hara, Eddie Maxie, Happy Nautty, Thomas McKenna, Harry A. Ellis and Charles Falk. Dockstader gives out a line of talk that is as funny as only a Dockstader can make it, and the finale is a presentation of the "Amused" act.

Among the song hits in the first part were: "The Wanderer" by Allan Campbell; "When a Boy From Old New Hampshire Loves a Girl From Tennessee" by Harry A. Ellis; "Patric J. O'Hara" by Carroll Johnson; and "My Love is Greater than the World" and the old favorite, "Sweet Sixteen" by Charles Falk.

Part two opens with a pretty skit from "Euphonia" with pleasing music, and followed by "Through the Breakers" with Dockstader swimming a sea mountain high and talking the while. Then follows Negro Quarters on Chantier Island with Carroll Johnson and 20 simple dandies in song and dances of the old plantation type.

Then came Lew Dockstader in his aeroplane giving his monologue, which abounds in local hits.

The final part of the play represents a breakfast dinner of the club in honor of Prof. Dockstader's return. This part introduces the famous sextette from Lucia excellently sung by Messrs. Ellis, Falk, McKenna, Hughes, Smith, and Hannafoord, and also Lewis, F. Muir, the raking composer, and his celebrated chorus, "The Barber Shop Chord," are the real hits of the evening. It was a good show throughout.

THE STAMPEDE
In speaking of "The Stampede," the Bangor, Me. Daily Commercial of Nov. 22nd says:

"The Stampede came to Bangor with no big advance reputation to sustain and the Bangor people who went to the Opera House Monday to see the play probably went more to while away the afternoon or evening, little expecting to see a first-class production at repertoire prices, but they came away surprised and delighted for the play was all that was claimed for it, and it let more in fact many productions have come to Bangor with the stamp of Broadway approval on them that cannot come within a mile of the Stampede if they were presented even with all-star casts.

The play is one that is laid largely in the far west, among the Indian tribes of the desert country, and it has all the interesting situations that accompany such productions.

The company presenting the piece is all that can be desired. Miss Buckingham, as Wangie, is a beautiful woman with a very pleasing stage presence, and the ability to portray her role in an exceptionally able manner. Arthur Behrens, as Dick Travers, makes a quiet and forceful hero, while John Stepping, in the role of Senator Bobbs, keeps the audience amused with his characterization of the college man, just graduated, with a decided proneness for the latest slang. The other roles are in capable hands.

The production is exceptionally well staged, the second and third acts which reveal a rocky mountain top in the foreground and the sandy desert and distant peaks in the background, are masterpieces of stagecraft. One almost imagines he is right on the spot. There is every attention to detail, particularly the dust arising from the stampede of the cattle in the last act. It is a play that should be seen by Bangor theatre-goers and deserves a crowded house at every performance.

"The Stampede" comes to the opera house tonight for three performances.

KLARK-URBAN COMPANY
It would be hard to find a repertoire company presenting a line of plays equal to those given by the Klark-Urban company, which will appear at the Lowell Opera House for three nights and two matinees commencing next Thursday evening. Klark and Urban believes that every play should be equally powerful and that each and every one should be a decided drawing power in itself. It is not the aim of the management to open with one particularly attractive play and then follow up a good impression with a series of unimpressive presentations.

The opening bill Thursday evening will be David Higgins' great comedy drama, "His Last Dollar" with "The Girl From Out Yonder," "One Girl in a Trousand," "The Fatal Scar" and "Sold Into Slavery" to follow. This exceptionally strong list of plays will be given entire with all special scenery and no local settings will be used from the opening to the closing bill.

The following high class specialties will be introduced at each and every performance. J. J. Hollinger, aerial artist; A. M. Penny, comedy juggler; Roberta and Edith, bounding rope and slack wire; Marion Allen, acrobatic dancer; Marie Hodgkins, vocalist; Grace Leith, The Funny Old Maid and The Four Monarchs of Music, Klark-Urban and Schreiber Brothers. Seats are on sale.

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER
"The Chocolate Soldier," one of the most successful of last season's musical offerings, is marching toward Lowell, and will be on parade at the Opera House on Dec. 5-10.

Particular interest is felt in this operetta, not only because of its fascinating Strauss music, but also because its libretto is based upon one of the wittiest of the plays of the ever interesting George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man." Setting Shaw to music was in itself such a bizarre idea that it was scarcely credited, but when "The Chocolate Soldier" came to New York from Berlin where it originated, it was greeted with a chorus of enthusiastic praise and a year-round run at the Casino followed. It met the same measure of success in Boston, whence it comes after a run of two months.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

One of the most novel as well as entertaining sketches that has been presented at Hathaway's theatre this season is that entitled "His Japanese Wife," which Valerie Bergere and company are offering this week for the approval of the local theatre-going public. The playlet was written by Grace Griswold, and while a comedy, there is plenty of pathos interspersed. Miss Bergere is too well known to those who have attended theatres or follow the news of stage life to go into any detail, other than to say that she is a dainty young lady, with an excellent stage appearance and a marvelous impersonation of the Japanese.

"O Chicka San," Madame Darling, is the part portrayed by Miss Bergere, and is the wife of "Senator Henry Joseph Hallenberg," which part is taken by Herbert Warren. "Hallenberg" met the dainty Japanese miss and immediately fell in love with her and the pair were married by a justice of the peace, the senator believing that the oriental lady would not want to bother with a church wedding.

The pair take up housekeeping, but the wife continues to retain her Japanese customs and when her husband is away she orders the servants to take all the American furniture and pictures and other articles out of the room, and in their stead are placed the oriental articles, tea sets, smoking suits, mats on which to squat on the floor, and the like. She also adores her husband and salams to him every time he addresses her. She smokes her pipes, drinks considerable tea and ever has her fan in her hand. Her hair also is dressed in the Japanese fashion.

The senator is deeply in love with his wife, but he is tired of endeavoring to Americanize her and is about to give the matter up as a bad job when his sister, "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," arrives at the home and the latter hits upon a plan whereby she believes she can make her brother's wife change her oriental habits. The secret of the sister's advice is to make the wife jealous and in this she proves to be a grand success. "Senator Hallenberg," at the request of his sister, becomes angered with his wife and threatens to send her back to her people in Japan. She is practically ordered to pack her trunk and get ready for the long journey.

"O Chicka San," seeing her husband speaking to "another woman in the street and believing that he wants to send her back to Japan in order to marry the other woman, becomes jealous and decides to become Americanized and do as her husband desires. She does so, and does an evening dress, French heels, slippers and changes the arrangement of her hair.

The Japanese maiden's attempts to learn the English language are certainly amusing. She finds it very difficult to remember many of the words and phrases, but manages to keep plenty of English slang stored up, which she hands out at times much to the disgust of her husband and the latter's sister.

Mr. Herbert Warren, as the husband plays his part in a capable manner as does Emma Campbell, as "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," the sister. The part of "Elizabeth," the maid, is taken by Katherine Kavanagh, while Clyde Adair as "James," the servant, is good.

Richard Barry, Virginia Johnson and Company, present a burlesque on western life entitled "At the Mouth of the Crozier," which takes the house by storm. The nature of the sketch some of the most ridiculous situations possible are presented. Mr. Barry portrays mugsy parts during the action of the piece and his changes from one character to another are very rapid. Miss Johnson is an able assistant in the success of the production.

One of the features of the sketch is the scenic effects.

Anita Diaz's monkeys—ten in number—are almost human. They do all kinds of stunts, such as standing on their heads, turning somersaults, riding on each other's backs, jumping through hoops, while the grand finale shows the monkeys on the backs of horses on a merry-go-round, while one monkey is grinding a hand-organ.

Carl Randall gives a correct impersonation of Laddie Cliffe. He is a good singer and dancer and his every move is a picture. Lillian Levler, singing comedienne, is there with the goods and delivers them. She is a sweet singer and has many new songs, one in which she advertises a well known gum, being specially pleasing to the young men who generally occupy the front rows in the theatre.

Knox and Alvin in "Trust for Jest" throws out all kinds of nonsense and please the audience. The Great Albas, a wire walker, does some hair raising stunts. The bill comes to a close with good motion pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Lad from Old Ireland" being shown at the Theatre Voyons today is a real Irish picture from start to finish. Its story can be duplicated hundreds of times right here in Lowell for it is one that shows how the pluck and industry of an Irish lad brings him to the front in time to save himself suffering the old country among his friends. The portion of the pictures portraying the scenes in Ireland was actually photographed there and there is no picture yet shown that equals

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A fine show greeted the patrons of the Academy yesterday afternoon and evening. The Telegraph Four are a comedy quartet that entertain in pleasing songs and dances and have a variety offering that is well worth seeing. Brobst, the magic whistler, captivated the audience with his whistling solos and life-like sounds and imitations. There is a clever little playlet offered by Mr. and Mrs. Cortis. The Tamer is the name of the skit and shows the awakening of a henpecked husband and the humiliation of his wife who has been rather inclined to lead a sporting life. Among the pictures is a pathetic Irish story which interprets many familiar scenes of the old sod in County Cork, Ireland.

Brade was a mill operative 51 years old and came from Canada. His wife was 42 and was born in Vermont. Their son-in-law, George Paquin, who also lives in the house, called at his father-in-law's door when he was going to work at the Royal Weaving Co.'s mill, where Brade was a loom-fixer. Finding only some of the children up he went with them to Brade's room, where they discovered the room filled with gas and their parents dead. The doors and windows were closed but this was not unusual and everything pointed to the conclusion that the deaths were accidental. They have eight children, one of whom is married. The youngest is 10 years old.

PARENTS DEAD

Ghastly Find of Two Children at Pawtucket

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 29.—Going to the room of their parents to awaken them today, the children of John T. Brade and his wife found their father and mother dead from asphyxiation, a partly opened gas jet still pouring its deadly gas into the room. The decision of Alameda Examiner Harold French was that both had come to their deaths by accident. The gas-cock was one that turned easily and it is believed that either just before retiring or some time during the night one of the couple touched it in such a manner as to allow the escape of the gas.

MRS. GEN'L TOM THUMBE
At Merrimack Square Theatre All This Week

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mrs. Tom Thumbe and her company of singers, consisting of Count Magri, her titled husband, and his brother, the Baron Magri, appear at the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The trio is very entertaining and delightful, and the company will appeal to the children as much as to the older folks. The act in which the three allies appear, "The Enchanted Statue," is laughable and very interesting, involving several rapid changes of costume by Count Magri, who proves himself a very capable comedian.

Another act which stands at the head of its kind is Hogan's Six Imperial Dancers. This company is composed of six young men, able dancers and first class singers.

First, the sextet, appearing in white tunic costumes, do a dancing and singing bit. Then a quartet give a well sung melody of the newest popular songs, ending up with a bang-up waltz dance. Then comes a scarce dance by a duet, which is original, clever and highly amusing, and finally a duet and sextet dance in Spanish costume, which is a distinct hit.

Lawton, the juggler, has a very pleasing act, comprising juggling of tennis balls by two, three and the half dozen. He also juggles in a scientific way all sorts of other articles and finally three real cannon balls.

Floyd and Russell, two clever colored comedians, a snappy young man and a comedienne with a sweet voice, make quite a hit in dancing, telling stories and singing some of the latest songs.

The Rosses very much please their audience with their illustrated songs. The bill will be presented continuously from 1 until 10.30 o'clock each day for the rest of the week. Mrs. Tom Thumbe and her company appear every day at 3.30 and 9.30 p.m., respectively. On Saturday afternoon next, Mrs. Tom Thumbe will hold a reception on the stage in order to greet the children in the audience, and will give souvenir portraits of herself to all.

MAYOR MEEHAN

Addressed Large Crowd at Mass. Mill Gate

Despite the unfavorable condition of the weather a goodly crowd gathered, stopped and listened to what Mayor John F. Meehan had to say at the main gate to the Massachusetts millia between the noon hour and one o'clock today. As was the case at the Lowell Machine shop, yesterday, Mr. Meehan handled his opponent without gloves and asked him a number of pertinent questions. The crowd was with the mayor. In part, he said:

Fellow citizens: A year ago through your assistance I was elected mayor of this city. Today I again solicit your votes for the coming election. When on January last I took the oath of office I promised to give a clean, decent administration. I believe from the bottom of my heart that I have fulfilled my obligations.

I had turned over to me a city disrupted in its organization. There had been warfare between the members of the city government and the mayor, and there had been warfare between the heads of departments and the chief executive. There was fever and turmoil on all sides. The total of city expenditures for departments had increased almost $100,000 and there was a general distrust.

The employees of city hall or many of them had been called hard names, and charges and counter charges were a part of the daily doings of municipal life.

The city of Lowell itself was made the feature of disgraceful headlines not only in Lowell but in all parts of the country and stories of the doings were spread not by Lowell newspapers, but by writers attracted by the conditions, which furnished fine copy for them and unfortunate copy for the city as a whole.

"With all this in mind there was only one course for me to take—to get the city back to a safe and sane basis and that is what I believe has been accomplished.

"Lowell during my administration, has not been made a subject of extravagant and indiscriminate headlines. But its valuation has shown a good healthy upbraid.

"Although the republicans have had a majority in the city council I have not felt obliged to call any member of that body a liar, and during my term of service no citizen has yet been unable to get a full hearing at my office, no matter what his complaint.

"I cannot think that either the city or I myself have lost a whit by this change of system. Certainly the greetings given me on the street as I was coming over this way, did not hint at it, and the expressions of appreciation which have come to me since the change do not hint at any dissatisfaction.

Gentlemen, Lowell is our city, and it needs a boost rather than a knock. We are living in a city which is the fourth in population in the state, and is the sixth richest of all the municipalities. We have great possibilities in the increase of our industries. We have an importance which is bound to grow.

HE NAMED HATTIE

Several Witnesses Testify to His Dying Declaration

SKETCHES AT THE LEBLANC TRIAL YESTERDAY

Glover Cried Out: "I'm Shot, I Can't Live"—Was Questioned Several Times Before He Mentioned Hattie LeBlanc's Name—Jurors and Witnesses Excluded From Court Room

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 28.—The scenic background for the trial of Hattie LeBlanc for the murder of Clarence F. Glover, who was mortally shot in his laundry at Waltham a year ago, having been set by giving the jury a view of points of interest, the government proceeded today to lay the plot of the case before the jury and to call the testifying actors on to the legal stage in the old Middlesex county court house at East Cambridge. But before District Attorney Higgins could utter a word to the jury regarding what he hopes to prove against the child-like Cape Breton defendant, there came a word of protest from M. L. Johnson, the leading counsel for the girl, against the mere mention by the district attorney of any "dying statement" by Glover. A good representation of the Middlesex bar was in the enclosure to hear the arguments on this basic point in the government's case, for it was generally believed that on the decision of Judge Bond and the question of its admission would hang an important bearing on the entire case.

Mr. Johnson contended that until the question of the alleged statement by Glover to the attending surgeons, in which he is said to have implicated Miss LeBlanc in the shooting, was finally settled, the government had no right to even refer to the episode. District Attorney Higgins fell back on long years of procedure in admitting ante-mortem statements.

Judge Bond, who was given an ultimatum yesterday that this objection would be raised, listened intently to day to the arguments while the jury whiled away their time in their own room.

Notwithstanding a stiff rainstorm the corridors of the court house were crowded long before the trial began and every seat was taken when the girl was led by her female attendant for the second day of the struggle in which her life is at stake.

Defense is Elated

The defense was considerably elated when Judge Bond ruled that the government must prove to his satisfaction that Glover made a dying statement and also whether he was hopeful of recovery just before his death. Judge Bond ordered the jury excluded until the government's witnesses were heard.

Jury and Witnesses Excluded

Not only were the laymen kept out of the courtroom but all the witnesses were barred. Miss LeBlanc was quite nervous when her father, who had been sitting close to her, followed the rest of the witnesses out of the room. District Attorney Higgins, after expressing a little surprise at the situation, said that he was unprepared for such a decision and had only a few witnesses present. He began, however, by calling a grocery clerk, Herman King, who was charged with delivering on the part of Dr. Connor's hospital, King said that Glover remarked: "I'm shot; I can't live."

When asked who shot him, Glover said, "A woman." King said he pressed Glover to tell her name but it was only after being asked several times that Glover said: "Hattie LeBlanc," and then gave her address on Main street.

Under cross-examination King could not remember whether Glover had said, "Operate on me quickly or I'm gone."

T. P. Connor, who followed King to the piazza, also heard Glover say that he had been shot by a woman. Connor said he urged Glover to tell who it was. "He seemed to hesitate," said the witness, "but after I repeated the question several times he at last said: 'It was Hattie LeBlanc.'"

Connor heard Glover say, "It's all off; I'm going to die." He helped carry the wounded man into the house and saw a doctor give him a hypodermic injection. He denied that Attorney Johnson that he heard Glover plead to be operated on.

Four witnesses who said they stood around Glover and heard him declare that Hattie LeBlanc shot him, testified before the government this afternoon. Dr. E. F. Dawd, from this physician the district attorney drew the admission that Glover was told of his doom, that there was never any hope for the man, regarding an operation but that Glover failed to respond to a powerful medicine and the operation was decided to be unnecessary. Dr. Dawd said that after Glover had been told that he could not live he repeated several times that Hattie LeBlanc shot him.

SEVERAL PERMITS

For New Buildings Issued at City Hall

Lowell's building boom was added to very materially today when permits for tenement cottages, houses and a grist of additions and alterations were taken out at the office of the inspector of buildings.

Jacques Boisvert was granted permits for three cottage houses in Essex street and Farmland road. One of the cottages will be 20 by 25, another 21 by 37, and the third 20 by 29 feet, one and one-half stories, six rooms, pantry and bath. The estimated cost of each cottage is $1000.

A permit for a three story house of concrete construction has been issued to Adolph Bouchard. The house will be built in Alken avenue near Ludlum street and will be a three family house, 32 by 57 feet. The estimated cost is $4500.

Martin L. Kirkby will build a two family house in Holden street. The house will be 25½ by 43 feet, two and one half stories and the estimated cost is $2500.

BIG CHINESE LOAN

BY AMERICAN SYNDICATE MAY NOT BE NEGOTIATED

PEKING, Nov. 28.—Serious doubt that the projected loan of $50,000,000 to China by an American financial syndicate will be concluded, is expressed in Peking. Numerous difficulties have arisen, among them that of the unwillingness of China to accept a foreign financial advisor. Without such control it is believed that the promoters are unwilling to proceed.

AGED PICKPOCKET

INVITED TO STEAL BY A DETECTIVE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Joseph Jones, 73 years old, who was arrested for picking the pocket of a detective, got a very light sentence yesterday because Judge Malone in general sessions does not think that the police should invite crime. He was sent to the penitentiary for six months.

Jones has spent 31 years of his life behind the bars and is known to the man of the central office. When two of them saw him jostling in the crowds at the 14th street station of the subway they decided to get him if they could.

One of the detectives took a half dollar from his trousers and dropped it in the change pocket of his overcoat. He made sure that Jones had seen him and then got into the crowd near Jones while the other detective looked on. Jones didn't miss the chance and was nabbed. Judge Malone said that the court could not sanction such proceedings.

Just after Jones was sentenced a young burglar, convicted under the name of Robert Brown was caught trying to rob an apartment in East 48th street. He had a kit of burglar's tools and a revolver. Judge Malone sentenced him to not less than fifteen years in Sing Sing, with a maximum of a life sentence at hard labor.

FINDS HUSBAND

AFTER A WORLD WIDE SEARCH FOR HIM

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—After a world-wide search for the husband she exited almost three years ago, Mrs. Lillian Henderson, of No. 312 West One Hundred and Eleventh street, New York, yesterday received his address from this city.

The man is Roe P. Henderson, art photographer.

"First a woman will and then she won't," wrote Mrs. Henderson to the local authorities. "Our courtship lasted three years, and after two years of married life we did not seem to get along. Roe's habits were too trying."

Henderson will never consent to a reconciliation.

Beckwith, of Garrison-on-the-Hudson, New York. The flight was made in the balloon Cleveland, which carried 25 bags of ballast.

The four said they would land as near New York City as possible. The balloon headed south, southerly direction and apparently would pass over western Connecticut.

VERDICT OF $2000

In Case of Plourde vs. Mooney Today

The testimony in the case of Arthur Plourde against James F. Mooney was concluded yesterday afternoon at the civil session of the superior court over which Judge Fox is presiding and counsel for the plaintiff and defendant made their arguments. Judge Fox began his charge to the jury, but was unable to complete it before the time for adjournment.

When court convened this morning Judge Fox gave the remainder of the charge and at 10:15 o'clock the jury retired.

The jury reported at two o'clock this afternoon with a verdict of $2000 for the plaintiff.

An Out-of-Town Case

The next case in order was that of Mary L. Smith against George Edwin Jordan, an action of tort. The plaintiff in her declaration states that on November 22, 1907, she was riding in a carriage on Lexington street, near Beaver street, Waltham, and while in the exercise of due care her carriage was run into from behind and struck by an automobile owned by the defendant.

She avers that the carriage and horse were overturned and she was thrown with great violence to the ground by reason of which she received many serious injuries. She further declares that she was put to a great expense for medical attendance and her horse also received severe injuries.

Jury Waived Session

In the jury waived session of the superior court, Judge Harris presiding, the case of Walter E. Morris against J. Frank Dubels and others, trustees, an action of contract, was taken up. Mr. John J. Devine of the firm of Pratt & Devine appearing for the plaintiff.

Republican Voter Liked Meehan and Adams

A general laugh was indulged in by the registrars of voters this forenoon when it was discovered that a voter in precinct one of ward four voted for John F. Meehan for mayor in the republican caucuses. The same voter voted for Smith J. Adams for purchasing agent and ignored the other men. There were but two crosses on his ballot and they were opposite the names of John F. Meehan, which he wrote in, and Smith J. Adams.

LODGE IS CONFIDENT

Had Conference With His Lieutenants Today

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The managers of the senatorial campaign of Henry Cabot Lodge, who is seeking a fourth term, today expressed themselves as well pleased with the situation and today Senator Lodge called in some of his skirmishers and prepared to leave for Washington to take up his regular duties there next week.

A letter made public today at the Lodge headquarters from former Justice Moody of the supreme court to Representative Wells of Haverhill commended the public services of Mr. Lodge, who, Mr. Moody said, was one of the best equipped men in public life and in his opinion the most competent legislator in the country. In his business office on Oliver street, from which Governor-elect Eugene Foss is conducting his campaign against Senator Lodge there was no sign of any slackening in the efforts to arouse public sentiment against the senior senator from Massachusetts. Mr. Foss declared today that he was still receiving letters, telegrams and telephone calls commending his attitude. He will start for the Cape tomorrow to begin a three days speaking tour and said today that he expected to visit other localities before his inauguration on Jan. 5th.

300 DOCKMEN DROWNED

ASTRAKHAHAN, Russia, Nov. 29.—During a sudden tempest in the Caspian sea today a landing stage on which were 300 Persian dock workers was dragged from its moorings and swept out to sea. The storm was so violent that attempts at rescue were futile and all hope that any of the men will be saved has been abandoned.

Scores of ships, several with their crews on board, were sunk at their moorings at different Caspian coast towns.

Seven towns along the coast were flooded, the inhabitants in hundreds of cases being forced to take refuge in haystacks. The plight of the sufferers is pitiable, as intense cold has added to the general misery.

A number of steamers have been sent from this port to aid the sufferers of the storm.

ONLY ONE DRUNK

Before Judge Hadley at Today's Session

It was quiet in police circles yesterday, one single drunk being arrested during the whole day. He was brought before Judge Hadley this morning, and fined $2.

William J. Ward pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on Sarah F. Greening. The complainant's testimony was to the effect that on November 14th Ward followed his wife and herself as far as his wife's home in Court street, that he made his way into the house through a window and then with his fist struck the complainant on the nose and ear. The defendant's wife corroborated the testimony of Miss Greening.

Ward denied striking the complainant. He said that he has been living apart from his wife for some time, and that he entered her home just to tell her to keep away from this Greening woman.

After summing up the evidence, the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15.

George Macarounis, arrested on a charge of gaming on the Lord's day, entered a plea of not guilty.

Last Sunday a squad of police officers made a raid in a tenement in the rear of 479 Market street. Seven Greeks were sent to headquarters on a charge of gaming on the Lord's day.

Three of these players claim that Macarounis was with them, but for some reason or other he was allowed to go.

Sergeant Duncan, Officers Grady and Fox, testified that when they entered the house last Sunday and found the seven men playing a hot game of cards the defendant was coming out of another room. Macarounis stated that he went in the house to buy some beer, because he knew that liquor was being sold there. He did not know that a game of cards was going on until he entered the house, and he denied taking part in the game. The court found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10.

The defendant appealed and he was held in $200 for superior court. J. J. Hennessy appeared for the defendant.

The case of Jan Machinovich, charged with intent to commit a felonious assault on Mrs. Eva Markelova, was heard before Judge Hadley this morning. The defendant admitted striking the woman on the mouth, but denied any attempt to commit a felonious assault. The court found the defendant guilty of assault and battery and ordered him to pay a fine of $25.

John Sokolinsky was found guilty of assault and battery on Stanislaw Jankowicz and ordered in $500 for the superior court.

This assault, which is of a serious nature, took place at a wedding celebration held in a house on Davidson street on November 26th.

It seems that the defendant after indulging in beer, struck the complainant over the head with a glass, then made good his escape. Officer Petrie, who was called in the house, found Stanislaw lying on the floor with a gash in his head and all covered with blood.

The dazed man was sent to the hospital. Later on the same night, Officer Petrie arrested the defendant in his room in Ben's court.

The complainant underwent an operation.

MackENZIE WRATHY

Over the Recount of Votes Cast for Alderman

Mr. Bergeron, the Defeated Candidate, Did Not Ask Recount but Other Candidates Did and Mackenzie Sees a Drive Against Him

The recount that was begun yesterday by the board of registrars was resumed this forenoon. The councilman's recounts in wards 3, 4 and 5 have been gone through with and there is no material change. The aldermanic recount, thus far, shows a gain of one vote for Bergeron over Mackenzie in wards 3 and 4.

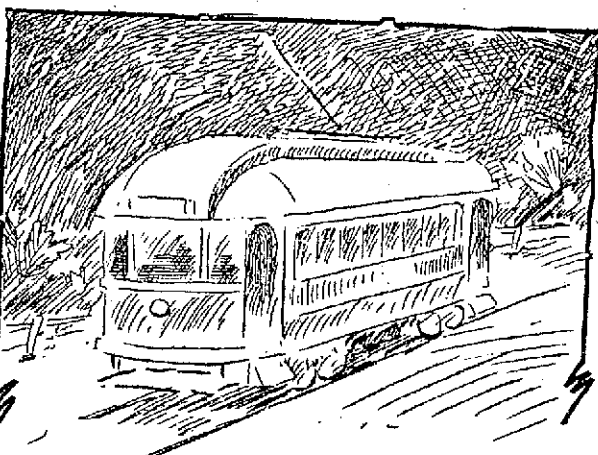

The petition for the recount in the case of Mr. Bergeron was a little out of the ordinary, inasmuch as it was not asked for by Mr. Bergeron himself, but by others whose names appear on the republican list for aldermanic honors, and who were successful in the primaries. Mr. Bergeron stated emphatically that he did not want a recount, and the fact that other republican candidates for alderman asked for it is not very pleasing to Mr. Mackenzie. The latter says that he did not fear the result of the recount, but he allows that inasmuch as Mr. Bergeron did not want it there was no reason why other candidates should ask for it. Mr. Mackenzie looks upon it as a sort of drive against him.

Special Meetings Tonight

Mayor Meehan has called special meetings of both branches of the city council for tonight. The meetings were called for the purpose of taking action on the $1000 recommended by the appropriations committee for a contagious and infectious hospital and also to take action on the ordinance creating a commission of four to have charge of the building. The chairman of the board of aldermen and the president of the common council will serve as a nominating committee to bring in names for the commission. The committee on appropriations will meet at 7 o'clock this evening and will consider the request of department heads for money to piece them out for the rest of the year.

NORTHEAST STORM

THE FIRST REAL SNOW STORM OF WINTER.

Started This Morning and Threatens to be Severe

We are in a regular "nor'easter."

The rain began to fall about five o'clock this morning and with a change of wind towards the north, snow soon appeared and has continued since, leaving a coat of shush all over the streets. The schools were dismissed in the afternoon and very wisely, because it would have been foolish to bring the children out, as most of them would get their feet wet and be liable to catch cold.

The weather predictions foretell a severe nor'easter storm and intense cold so that it is quite likely that we are to have the first real storm of the winter season.

The street cars were somewhat retarded today but the schedule was followed as closely as possible. The company is prepared to meet the predicted storm and the snow plows are ready for action at any minute. The guttermen of the street department were busy and their services were highly appreciated in keeping the crossings passable.

In all probability we are but in the beginning of what will prove to be a real old fashioned storm.

ELOPING COUPLE

Best Man Tells of Romantic Marriage

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—There was a thrilling Romeo and Juliet elopement early Sunday from the home of Frederick M. Blake, No. 337 West Eighty-fifth street, New York. It is the story told here by Daniel M. Polsey, the best man at the subsequent wedding, is true.

Miss Fift May, the charming daughter of Mr. Blake, was married in this city yesterday to Howard T. Walker, son of William H. Walker of New York. And, according to Polsey, the elopement was accomplished after a heart-breaking but compulsory postponement.

It was all arranged, he says, that the young people should flee on Saturday and be married at 9 o'clock that evening by a justice of the peace in Stamford, with whom Polsey had made an appointment by telephone.

But at the psychological and romantic moment the sweethearts discovered that the bride's father was suspicious. Polsey said that a police guard had been placed about the house. Anyway, he saw a policeman pass by the house.

Love's Signal Code

The secret correspondence system known only to young folks in love arranged another plot, however.

Late Saturday night, according to Mr. Polsey, an upstairs window in the Blake home was softly raised and a fair but frightened face became visible to two apprehensive young men standing in the shadow below. Then a neatly wrapped bundle was slowly lowered on a rope to the eager hands of the young men. Another bundle, and yet another. Even in time of peril how could a bride go to her wedding without all her best clothes?

When the last precious package had been lowered the window was softly closed and the two figures below vanished heavily laden into the darkness.

In the silence of the very early morning, they returned and again lingered in the shadow. Soon a clocked and muffled figure stole stealthily out of the front door. The next moment, all three were hurrying to the railroad station.

Was Nearly Caught, He Said

"While we were waiting for Miss Blake to send down her clothes," said Polsey to the justice who was to have married them, "a policeman came down the street. I thought it was all up. I know he saw me. So I put on a bold front and walked right up the steps as if I were going to ring the door-bell. The policeman went on by, and we were saved."

When they reached Stamford they were married by the Rev. John D. Skeene, rector of St. Andrew's church. It is believed they returned to New York.

At the Blake home last night a woman who answered the door bell said she didn't know about the elopement, but that the young couple were at the home of Mr. Walker's uncle, the Rev. C. C. Walker, No. 35 Garden place, Brooklyn. When a reporter arrived there he was told that nothing was known of the affair.

According to Mr. Polsey, who is a lawyer, Mr. Blake's objection to the marriage at this time was because the couple were so young. The bride is twenty-two and the bridegroom twenty-four.

CAUGHT HIS WIFE

Irate Husband Breaks Up Elopement Supper

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 29.—A secret elopement, supposed to have been the wife's husband and Captain of Detectives Tracy, a flat battle between the two men, and the swooning of the wife when taken to the police station in Paterson, formed the climax of the elopement of Mrs. Jennie Noon and Robert C. Gary, from Wilkesbarre, late last evening.

The couple arrived in Paterson from Wilkesbarre in the morning, pursued by the irate husband. With Mrs. Noon was her seven-year-old daughter, Marcelle. Gary and Mrs. Noon engaged rooms in a boarding-house at No. 171 Van Houten street. One hour later Noon arrived and engaged rooms in the Elvieve hotel, and started on a hunt for the elopement.

At police headquarters and got the services of Captain of Detectives Tracy. In the meanwhile, secure in the belief that they would not be discovered, the elopers decided to have an "elopement supper."

Child Tries to Make Truce

It was just after 9 o'clock, and the last course had been served, when Noon and Captain Tracy appeared.

"That's the man with my wife," shouted Noon, as he started forward. In the pitched battle that followed Gary was beaten quite badly.

Following the fight Mrs. Noon attempted a reconciliation, and the daughter did her little part in trying to patch up a truce. But the father and husband was deaf to their entreaties, and the couple were taken to police headquarters just as the night band was playing its strains.

At the sight of all the bluecoats Mrs. Noon gave a shriek and lurched forward in Gary's arms, in a dead faint. Gary gave his age as 25, and his occupation actor and salesman.

Mr. Noon said he was a braid manufacturer at Wilkesbarre, and was married eight years ago. He said his wife had met Gary while he was playing an engagement in Wilkesbarre with the "Topsy Turvy" company.

Had Fled Once Before

When the company left the city Mrs. Noon followed, but was brought back by her husband. She was infuriated with the young actor, and last Thanksgiving night, when Noon arrived at his home in the fashionable section of St. Mary's Park, he found it stripped of the furniture.

Jewelry and silverware also were missing. The wife had left a note behind, declaring her love for Gary, and saying she had taken their daughter with her.

"Do not look for me, for you will never find me," she wrote. Mrs. Noon is an attractive woman, and is 24 years of age. She is said to be the daughter of a prominent judge in Stroudsburg, Pa.

EARL A. THISSELL
Commander

Post 42, G. A. R., and Its Present Commander

Hereafter The Sun will publish a series of pictures of society heads beginning with the Grand Army and giving with each a brief sketch of the society.

When the call to arms came at the opening of the Civil war the men of Lowell were among the foremost to respond, a fact of which the martyrdom of Ladd, Whitney and Taylor afford historic proof. After the conclusion of the war the Lowell men who survived the struggle were quite numerous. The companies which left for the front lost many members, while many returned with the scars of battle, some with empty sleeves or wooden legs.

It was to be expected that the men who had risked their lives on the battlefield would organize and accord to the Republic the post of the Grand Army of the Republic was formed at Springfield, Ill., in 1886.

The B. F. Butler, Post 42, G. A. R., of this city, held its first meeting January 20, 1888. The members had served in a great many regiments all over the country and had figured in practically every great battle of the war. The first place of meeting was in the old Mechanics hall in Dutton street, and subsequently the post met at the corner of Market and Central streets, but finally shifted to Memorial hall, in which the meetings are now held on the first Wednesday of each month.

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, for whom the post was named, was mustered in as a comrade in 1885 and was interested in the Grand Army until his death. The members are yearly growing less in number, but those who remain are still loyal to the Grand Army and as deeply as ever interested in the progress, prosperity and perpetuity of this republic.

The present officers of the post are: Commander, Earl A. Thissell; senior vice commander, John Harrington; junior vice commander, Thomas J. McDonald; adjutant, George E. Worthen; quartermaster, Chester S. Goodwin; surgeon, James F. McCarthy; chaplain, Charles E. Brackett; officer of the day, Peter Leclair; officer of the guard, John Daly.

The list of past commanders is as follows: George A. Marden, Alpha B. Farr, General Fiske, Charles E. Kimball, Charles H. Richardson, Edward W. Thompson, John A. G. Richardson, Albert L. Findar, George W. Huntton, Major Charles A. Stott, George W. Worthen, Frank B. Peabody, John J. Dolan, James R. Fulton, Gen. C. A. R. Diman, William H. L. Hayes, John Welch, Edward T. Rowell and George McIntire.

INJURIES FATAL

And Chauffeur is Held for Manslaughter

WORCESTER, Nov. 29.—By direction of Judge Utley, John C. Jeffers, Jr., son of a well known Worcester merchant, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in the central Worcester district court today at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of Miss Emma St. Martin of Leicester. Miss St. Martin was run down by an automobile operated by Jeffers at Cherry Valley, just outside of this city, on the night of Nov. 19, and subsequently died of her injuries. The testimony at the inquest indicated that Jeffers, who is about 21 years old, was operating his automobile at a rapid rate of speed.

and who Sunday night had again beaten and badly injured his wife.

"Take your coat off and get down on your knees, you brute," roared the magistrate. "The law does not provide the proper punishment for your sort, so I'll give you a taste of the same medicine you like to administer."

WIFE BEATER GETS HIS FROM COURT

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 29.—Justice of the Peace J. C. Hayden, of Sayreville, yesterday used a horse-whip upon Albert Gev., of the same place, who is a chronic wife-beater.

ANOTHER VICTIM

Twenty-Fourth Death in Newark Disaster

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 29.—Another victim has been added to the list of casualties in the fire of Saturday when so many lost their lives through jumping from windows. The latest to succumb is Miss Anna Haug, the forewoman in the Wolf Mulin Underwear Co., who died this morning in the City hospital. This morning, Chief Justice Gummere of the supreme court made an inspection of the ruins.

Miss Haug's death makes the twenty-fourth as the result of the disaster.

WITH THE BOWLERS

Some Exciting Contests on the Alleys Last Night

The Wameests put it all over the Lamsons in a game in the Minor league series last night, the winning aggregation outpacing all three points. Mullen of the Wameests was high man with a triple of 281, while the high single which was 113 went to Quirk of the fifth street.

The Fifth Street Stars, a team made up of members of the Fifth Street Baptist church, and Swanson's Pits, made up of members of the Worthen Street Baptist church, met on the alleys last night and the Stars defeated their opponents.

Lowell Council and Rochambeau Council of the Royal Arcanum league met at last night but the least said is soonest mended, especially for Rochambeau council team, for that team received an awful trouncing.

A team made up of employees of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. defeated a team of employees of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. on the alleys last night. The scores:

MOODY BRIDGE BOWLING LEAGUE
The secretary of the Moody Bridge Bowling league furnishes the following statistics which undoubtedly will be of interest to the members of the league as well as the local bowling enthusiasts:

On points, two teams, the Druggists and the Clerks, are tied for first place with eight wins and four losses. As the teams are ranked according to total pinfall, however, the Druggists hold the top of the column with a narrow lead over the Clerks.

In spite of the fact that the Monkeys are at the bottom of the standing, two of their men, Lebrun and Lavalle, head the individual list with a grand lead over their nearest competitors. Especially is this true of Lebrun, who is a well known bowler of old standing and who has made big scores in the past.

The team and individual standings are:

BITTER EXPERIENCE
CREW OF LONE STAR WITHOUT FOOD FOR 48 HOURS
ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 23.—A stirring tale of the wintry seas was told here last night by Capt. William Coffell and his two sons, Daniel and John, the crew of the little coasting schooner Lone Star who, without food and water, had been exposed for 48 hours to the storm raging in the Bay of Fundy, while clinging to the dismantled and water-logged craft, the decks of which were awash. The Lone Star was almost wrecked Saturday morning when she struck a submerged wreck off Old Proprietor ledge, clinging to their craft. Captain Coffell and his sons were at the mercy of the elements until they were rescued yesterday morning by the Canadian Pacific steamer Mount Temple, which brought them here last night.

KRAMER AND RUTT ENTERED IN THREE CORNERED BICYCLE RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Widespread interest is being taken in the three cornered bicycle race for the world's indoor sprinting championship to be held in Madison Square Garden here Dec. 3. Frank Kramer, who has held the title in this country for the past ten years; Walter Rutt of Germany, who has taken the measure of all the European cracks; and Jack Clarke, the famous little Australian short distance champion, form the trio of starters in this great match. The race is to be run in heats, best two out of three or best three out of four if a fourth is necessary. The first heat will be at one-half mile, the second at a mile, and the others to be decided by the toss of a coin. Kramer and Clarke have had several bitter duels during the last summer season around the circuit, comprising Vailsburg, N. J.; Boston, New Haven, Conn., and Providence, R. I. They are both at the Newark track now in training for the coming race. In addition to riding in this event, Clarke and Rutt will be both participants in the six day later again having as partner the grind to start Dec. 4, the former being teamed with Floyd McFarland and the latter again having as partner the sturdy Holland champion, John Stol.

The New York county republican committee certified that it received and expended $52,241 at the election. Among the contributors were Frank A. Macey and George W. Perkins, each $5,000; Ogden L. Mills, $5,000; Otto T. Barnard, $2,894; James B. Ford, $1,500; republican state committee, $1,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $500; Carnegie, Victor Morawetz, Inc., $400; South Low, R. Fulton, $300; Henry C. W. Sellsman, each $250; Henry W. Taft and John Hays Hammond, each $100.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The republican committee of the city of Philadelphia has been to build up, not to tear down. Harmony reigns supreme in all the departments of the city at the present time, and they are all cooperating for the common good where they can by change of administration you might find them disorganized and in a state of turmoil in which nothing of importance could be accomplished.

"You can't build a trolley line to the moon or hitch your chariot to a star and I have not attempted any of these impossibilities. I undertake to say that we have done more work with less noise and less publicity, ten times over than was accomplished by my republican opponent."

"My opponent says that he sprung from the ranks and I want to ask you if when he was mayor of Lowell he appointed to public office a man from the ranks, with one exception and that was a man to the charity board. I would like to have the voters of Lowell go to the legislators in Boston and ask them what their impression was of my republican opponent when he appeared before them on the question of a new charter for Lowell."

"I have not the time to go into details relative to the things that my opponent as mayor promised to do and didn't do. He told you that he was going to drive two prominent citizens out of town. Did he do it? He told you that he was going to investigate the water and assessors' departments. Did he do it? No. Why?"

"He unseated a police board and what was the consequence? The police board was reinstated because Judge Dana said that to any impartial mind there was no evidence enough to warrant the discharge of any of the police. Did he do it? He told you that he was going to investigate the water and assessors' departments. Did he do it? No. Why?"

"I want to say that, unlike my republican opponent, I made appointments from the ranks. I appointed Mr. Mulvaney to the police board and to show to you that my opponent had faith in Mr. Mulvaney I will recall the fact that when the work on the Washington school was being investigated he appointed Mr. Mulvaney as an expert plumber to pass on the plumbing in that school."

Moffatt's Pension
"I have been criticized for signing the pension of the ex-superintendent of police, Mr. Moffatt."

MAYOR MEEHAN

Got a Rousing Reception at the Machine Shop Gate

Dealt With Administration of His Republican Opponent and Asked Him to Explain What Harris and MacBrayne Meant When They Said They Could Not Continue to Hold Office Under Him and Maintain Their Self Respect

More than 1200 people, including a generous sprinkling of the fair sex, heard Mayor John F. Meehan at the Lowell Machine shop between the noon hour and 1 o'clock yesterday, and the mayor supplied the men with a whole lot to think about before casting their ballots at the city election on Tuesday, December 12.

It was one of the biggest out-door rallies ever held at the big shop and it was plain to be seen that the crowd was with the mayor. Several times during his speech he was interrupted by applause and when he had finished, three cheers were given with a vengeance.

Mayor Meehan got a rousing reception and handled his opponent without gloves. His honor said that when his republican opponent was mayor it was a case of turmoil from the beginning to the end of the year, and that instead of saving the city money he had cost the city more than $400,000 on one item alone, that of the removal of the police board.

He called upon his republican opponent to tell the people why it was that the two commissioners appointed by him felt obliged to resign and to state in their letter of resignation that they could no longer maintain their self-respect.

In part, he said: "I am glad to open my campaign here at the gate of the big shop where I opened by campaign of a year ago. I have been your mayor for one year and I come to you today with an accounting of my stewardship in the coming election, and I sincerely hope that they will pursue the right course. You know the kind of administration my republican opponent gave you when he was mayor and you know the kind of administration that I have given you."

Lived Up to Promises
"I have lived up to my promises as mayor of the city of Lowell. I promise that I would give you a safe, sane and progressive administration and that is what I gave you. Good government is what we need and we have it at the present time. We have good schools, good and efficient police and fire departments, and good roads and good sewerage. Some people would have you believe that we are a lot of thieves; that we are destructionists rather than constructionists; but we know that the men who make those statements are looking at us through their own mirrors."

Lowell has been to build up, not to tear down. Harmony reigns supreme in all the departments of the city at the present time, and they are all cooperating for the common good where they can by change of administration you might find them disorganized and in a state of turmoil in which nothing of importance could be accomplished.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Some men go back and subsequently come back while others go back and fail to come back, but Low Docketader and Carroll Johnson, bless their good natured and care-free souls, have never gone back, but like old wine, only mellow with age and each year appear more attractive than before.

Lew and his melodious minstrels appeared at the Opera House last evening before a decent sized house, although a trifle top-heavy, and everyone went away happy as usual. The minstrel show is annually losing its identity but last night's presentation had a graceful blending of the old with the new that pleased immensely.

Instead of the old fashioned first part and after-piece Lew introduces the minstrels in a two-part musical comedy entitled "The Possum Hunt Club Revue." The play has its little plot and it's a plot that admits of a feast of fun handed out as only the inimitable Lew can hand it.

The opening scene presented the doings of the club on the eve of the departure of one of its members, who was to accompany the Roosevelt party to Africa. Prof. Lew Dobbycoo, despite his earnest protestations, is chosen as the official representative to assist in making the trip through the African jungle. The dream develops as his departure he meets the voodoo man and is given a bottle of voodoo water, which causes him to dream out the doings of the proposed trip, and in this way he is saved the inconvenience of "going south." The dream develops and with it many interesting as well as laughable incidents which carry the show and entertain through two hours of solid fun. The ending has a climax in the awakening of the professor and a recital of his supposed experiences.

In the opening act, the members of the club introduce numerous musical numbers by Messrs. Charles J. Raymond, Carroll Johnson, Eddie Mazzy, Harry Naulty, Thomas McKenna, Harry A. Ellis and Charles Falk. Docketader gives out a line of talk that is as funny as only a Docketader can make it and the finale is a presentation of the Animated Pig.

Among the song hits in the first part were: "The Wanderer," by Allan Campbell; "When a Boy from Old New Hampshire Loves a Girl from Tennessee," by Harry Naulty; "Rick J. O'Hare," by Carroll Johnson; and "My Love is Greater Than the World," and the old favorite, "Sweet Sixteen," by Charles Falk.

Part two opens with a pretty skit from "Pinocchio" with pleasing music and followed by "Through the Breakers" with Docketader swimming a sea mountain high and talking the while. Then follows Negro Quarters on Charleston Island with Carroll Johnson and 20 nimble darters in song and dances of the old plantation type.

Then came Lew Docketader in his aeroplane giving his monologue, which abounds in local hits.

The final part of the play represents a breakfast dinner of the Hunt club in honor of Prof. Dobbycoo's return. This part introduces the famous sextette from Lucia excellently sung by Messrs. Ellis, Falk, McKenna, Hughes, Smith, and Hannaford, and also Lewis P. Muly, the regatta composer, and his celebrated chorus, "The Barber Shop Chord." It was a good show throughout.

THE STAMPEDE

In speaking of "The Stampede," the Bangor, Me., Daily Commercial of Nov. 22nd says:

The Stampede came to Bangor with much big advance reputation to sustain and the Bangor people who went to the Opera House Monday to see the play probably went more to while away the afternoon or evening, little expecting to see a first-class production at repertoire prices, but they came away surprised and delighted for the play was all that was claimed for it and a for more, in fact, many productions have come to Bangor with the stamp of Broadway approval on them that cannot come within a mile of the Stampede if they were presented even with all star casts.

The play is one that is held largely in the far west, among the Indian tribes of the desert country, and it has all the interesting situations that accompany such productions.

The company presenting the piece is all that can be desired. Miss Buckingham, as Wangs, is a beautiful woman with a very pleasing stage presence, and the ability to portray her role in an exceptionally able manner. Arthur Behrens, as Dick Traverser, makes a quiet and forceful hero, while John Stepping, in the role of Senator Hobbs, keeps the audience amused with his characterization of the college man, just graduated, with a decided proneness for the latest slang. The other roles are in capable hands.

The production is exceptionally well staged, the second and third acts which reveal a rocky mountain top, in the foreground and the sandy desert and distant peaks in the background, are masterpieces of stagecraft. One almost imagines he is right on the spot. There is every attention to detail, particularly the detail arising from the stampede of the cattle, in the last act. It is a play that should be seen by Bangor theatre-goers and deserves a crowded house at every performance.

"The Stampede" comes to the opera house tonight for three performances.

KLARK-URBAN COMPANY

It would be hard to find a repertoire company presenting a line of plays equal to those given by the Klark-Urban company, which will appear at the Lowell Opera House for three nights and two matinees commencing next Thursday evening. Klark and Urban believes that every play should be equally powerful and that each and every one should be a decided drawing power in itself. It is not the aim of the management to open with one particularly attractive play and then follow up a good impression with a series of unimpressive presentations.

The opening bill Thursday evening will be David Higgins' great comedy drama, "His Last Dollar," with "The Girl from Out Yonder," "One Girl in a Thousand," "The Fatal Score," and "Sold into Slavery" to follow. This exceptionally strong list of plays will be given entire with all special scenery and no local settings will be used from the opening to the closing bill.

The following high class specialties will be introduced at each and every performance. Fred Bollinger, aerial artist; A. E. Tenny, comedy juggler; Tobeta and Edith, bounding rope and slack wire; Marion Allen, acrobatic dancer; Marie Hodgkins, vocalist; Grace Leith, The Funny Old Maid and The Four Monarchs of Music, Klark-Urban and Schreiber Brothers. Seats are on sale.

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER

"The Chocolate Soldier," one of the most successful of last season's musical offerings, is marching toward Lowell, and will be on parade at the Opera House on Dec. 9-10.

Particular interest is felt in this opera, not only because of its fascinating story, but also because its libretto is based upon one of the wittiest of the plays of the ever interesting George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man." Setting Shaw to music was in itself such a bizarre idea that it was scarcely credited, but when the Chocolate Soldier came to New York from Berlin where it originated, it was greeted with a chorus of enthusiastic praise and a week-round run at the Casino followed. It met the same measure of success in Boston, whence it comes after a run of two months.

At the Hathaway.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

One of the most novel as well as entertaining sketches that has been presented at Hathaway's theatre this season is that entitled "His Japanese Wife," which Valerie Bergere and company are offering this week for the approval of the local theatre-going public. The playlet was written by Grace Griswold, and while a comedy, there is plenty of pathos interspersed. Miss Bergere is too well known to those who have attended theatres or follow the news of stage life to go into any detail other than to say that she is a dainty young lady, with an excellent stage appearance and a marvelous impersonation of the Japanese.

"O Chicka San," Madame Darling, is the part portrayed by Miss Bergere, and is the wife of "Senator Henry Joseph Hallenberg," which part is taken by Herbert Warren. "Hallenberg" met the dainty Japanese miss and immediately fell in love with her and the pair were married by a justice of the peace, the senator believing that the oriental lady would not want to bother with a church wedding.

The pair take up housekeeping, but the wife continues to retain her Japanese customs and when her husband in a way she orders the servants to take all the American furniture and pictures and other articles out of the room, and in their stead are placed the oriental articles, tea sets, smoking pipe, mats on which to squat on the floor, and the like. She also orders her husband and salams to him every time he addresses her. She smokes her pipe, drinks considerable tea and owns to her Japanese costume and ever has her fan in her hand. Her hair also is dressed in the Japanese fashion.

The senator is deeply in love with his wife, but he is tired of endeavoring to Americanize her and is about to give the matter up as a bad job when his sister, "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," arrives at the home and the latter hits upon a plan whereby she believes she can make her brother's wife change her oriental habits. The secret of the sister's advice is to make the wife jealous and in this she proves to be a grand success. "Senator Hallenberg," at the request of his sister, becomes angered with his wife and threatens to send her back to Japan in order to marry the other woman, becomes jealous and decides to become Americanized and do as her husband desires. She does so, and does an evening dress, French heel slippers and changes the arrangement of her hair.

The Japanese maiden's attempts to learn the English language are certainly amusing. She finds it very difficult to remember many of the words and phrases, but manages to keep plenty of English slang stored up, which she hands out at times much to the disgust of her husband and the latter's sister.

Mr. Herbert Warren, as the husband plays his part in a capable manner as does Emma Campbell, as "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," the sister. The part of "Elizabeth," the maid, is taken by Katherine Kavanagh, while Clyde Adler as "James," the servant, is good.

Richard Barry, Virginia Johnson and company, present a burlesque on western life, entitled "At the Mouth of the Crater," which takes the house by storm. The nature of the sketch cannot fail to produce much laughter during the course of the sketch some of the most ridiculous situations possible are presented. Mr. Barry portrays many parts during the action—of the piece and his changes from one character to another are very rapid. Miss Johnson is an able assistant in the success of the production.

One of the features of the sketch is the scenic effects.

Anti Dix's monkeys—ten in number—are almost human. They do all kinds of stunts, such as standing on their heads, turning somersaults, riding on each other's backs, jumping through hoops, while the grand finale shows the monkeys on the backs of horses on a merry-go-round, while one monkey is riding a hand-organ.

Carl Randall gives a correct impersonation of Ludlow Cliffe. He is a good singer and dancer and his every move is a picture. Lillian Levier singing comedienne, is there with a good and delivers them. She is a sweet singer and has many new songs, one in which she advertises a well known gum, being specially pleasing to the young men who generally occupy the front rows in the theatre.

Knox and Alvin in "Just for Jest" throw out all kinds of nonsense and please the audience. The Grand Alvin a wire walker, does some hair raising stunts. The bill comes to a close with good motion pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Lad from Old Ireland" being shown at the Theatre Voyons today is a real Irish picture from start to finish. Its story can be duplicated hundreds of times right here in Lowell for it is one that shows how the pluck and industry of an Irish lad brings him to the front in time to save end to suffering the old country among his friends. The portion of the pictures portraying the scenes in Ireland was actually photographed there and there is no picture yet shown that equals this in the accuracy of its staging.

"His Mother's Thanksgiving" is an excellent picture, telling of a dear old lady's visit to her city son. There are other interesting features on the bill and the musical features are very appropriate.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A fine show greeted the patrons of the Academy yesterday afternoon and evening. The "Telegraph Four" are a comedy quartet that entertain in a pleasing songs and dances and have a variety offering that is well worth seeing. Brobot, the magic whistler, captivated the audience with his whistling solos and life-like sounds and imitations. There is a clever Little playlet offered by Mr. and Mrs. Cortis. "The Tamer" is the name of the sketch and shows the awakening of a neglected husband and the humiliation of his wife who has been rather inclined to lead a sporting life. Among the pictures is a pathetic Irish story that displays many familiar scenes of the old sod in County Cork, Ireland.

Brink was a mill operative 51 years old and came from Canada. His wife was 42 and was born in Vermont. Their son-in-law, George Paquin, who also lives in the house, called at his father-in-law's door when he was going to work at the Royal Weaving Co.'s mill, where Brink was a co-manager. Finding only some of the children up he went with them to Brink's room, where they discovered the room filled with gas and their parents dead. The doors and windows were closed but this was not unusual and everything pointed to the conclusion that the deaths were accidental. They leave eight children, one of whom is married. The youngest is 10 years old.

MRS. GEN'L TOM THUMB
At Merrimack Square Theatre All This Week

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mrs. Tom Thumb and her company of midgets, consisting of Count Magri, her titled husband, and his brother, the Baron Magri, appear at the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The trio is very entertaining and delightful and the company will appeal to the children as much as to the older folks. The act in which the three mites appear, "The Enchanted Statue," is laughable and very interesting, involving several rapid changes of costume by Count Magri, who proves himself a very capable comedian.

Another act which stands at the head of its kind is Homan's Six Imperial Dancers. This company is composed of six young men, able dancers and first class singers.

First, the sextet, appearing in white tunic costumes, do a dancing and singing bit. Then a quartet give a well sung medley of the newest popular songs, ending up with a bang-up wooden shoe dance. Then comes a sorrowful dance by a duet, which is original, clever and highly amusing, and finally a duet and sextet dance in Spanish costume, which is a distinct hit.

Lawton, the juggler, has a very pleasing act, comprising juggling of tennis balls by twos, three and the half dozen. He also juggles in a scientific way all sorts of other articles and finally three real cannon balls.

Floyd and Russell, two clever colored comedians, a snappy young man and a comedienne with a sweet voice, make quite a hit in dancing, telling stories and singing some of the latest songs.

The Rosses very much please their audience with their illustrated songs. The bill will be presented continually from 1 until 10:30 o'clock each day for the rest of the week. Mrs. Tom Thumb and her company appear every day at 3:30 and 8:30 p. m. and expect to stay many weeks.

One side of the story is good till the other is told. Mayor Meehan will give the voters some light upon municipal matters in the next few days. Every voter should endeavor to hear him.

The city of New Bedford on election day will take a referendum vote upon the matter of adopting a pension law for city employees. It is estimated that the expense of such a pension law would soon run up to $50,000 a year, which is more than the city of New Bedford can afford for such a purpose.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson, governor-elect of New Jersey, is to take a hand in the election of a United States senator in that state. If he cannot elect James Smith, Jr., a democrat, who served in the senate, he will support some other worthy democrat. Dr. Wilson has grown to be a power in the politics of New Jersey.

TO DISCUSS CITY CHARTERS

Ex-President Eliot will visit Lowell on Wednesday evening to give the citizens his views upon what is known as the Des Moines charter. He has been drawn upon for this same purpose by the cities of Haverhill, Lynn and several others. He is always willing to give his time to the elucidation of this important subject on which it seems that he is an expert, having made a study of it in order to be able to advise the cities upon what form of charter is most suitable to their needs.

Everybody interested in the question of charter revision should hear Mr. Eliot at Associate hall on Wednesday evening.

CONGRESSMAN HENRY GEORGE

Henry George, elected to congress, is being boomed for the ways and means committee. Mr. George is the son of the late writer and single tax advocate of the same name, whose writings and speeches are still fresh in the memory of many citizens of the United States. The young man is highly accomplished along the same lines. He has travelled extensively in almost every country in the world, and has studied economic conditions and systems of government and taxation. He would undoubtedly make a very valuable member of the committee on ways and means.

It will probably be the duty of Champ Clark or otherwise a committee of members to appoint the standing committees. It will, therefore, depend upon the appointing power whether Congressman George will have a place on this important committee.

THE NEWARK FIRE HORROR

That was a horrible fire at Newark, New Jersey, on Saturday, when twenty-five young girls lost their lives in a fire panic. It seems that they were cut off by the fire, and finding themselves trapped, jumped rather hastily from a window. They were thrown into a frenzied panic, and many of them did not wait for the fire or even for the smoke to overtake them until they jumped from the windows.

That is undoubtedly the natural impulse of young girls, and sometimes of men when they find themselves hemmed in by fire in an upper story.

When it appears that to jump means certain death, they should have sense enough to wait until the last minute or until they see no other resource left to avoid death in the flames. Had these young girls been a little more patient, in all probability they might have been saved, because the fire station was only a few doors from the building. It seems that the firemen could have got their ladders to the point where the girls were waiting to be rescued before the flames got up to the windows, but the girls in their frenzy did not consider this, and took the risk of jumping which in nearly all of the cases resulted fatally.

This should convey a wholesome warning to others who may be caught under similar circumstances. They should never jump until the flames are seething around them, and not even then if there is any other possible remedy.

It is a good plan, as Chief Hosmer has stated, when they find themselves enveloped in smoke to put their heads out of the window to avoid suffocation. It often happens that the smoke is sufficiently dense to suffocate long before the flames arrive.

Chief Hosmer says that the conditions that prevailed at the fire in Newark, New Jersey, could not be duplicated here in Lowell so far as the building is concerned, but as regards the panic there is no telling what a lot of girls and women or even men will do in case of excitement. That may be very true but the question arises, is there any building employing large numbers on the third or fourth stories, any hotel or lodging house in which there is a possibility of any considerable number being cut off by fire? A general survey of the city in order to determine these points in the light of the Newark disaster, might result in preventing disasters of the same kind in our own city.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

There was disapproval in Emporia, Kan., of the private manners of an opera singer who visited the city, and who was praised by the critics for her "bewitching manner and her sweet ways." That manner and those ways were confined to the stage, apparently, for the Emporia Gazette saw fit to publish on its first page a paragraph in display type setting forth how the singer "upset the calm demeanor of the hotel proprietor" by demanding beer and Turkish cigarettes, and by calling the city a "country town" when she did not get them. Her remarks of indignation to the operator in the peaceful Kansas exchange are declared to have been of a character that would have impressed the "art reporter," who, at the recital, had "waked soulful on 'articulation' and 'clarity'."

A December wedding will be that of Miss Dorothy Lawson, daughter of Thomas W. Lawson, who is to be married on the 15th to Henry McCall, son of Congressman McCall. It is to take place at the Lawson estate, "Dreamworld," in Egypt, where there was a family gathering on Thanksgiving.

The Metropolitan museum of art at New York has secured another great art treasure by purchase in a famous painting by Paul Veronese, the subject of which is Venus and Mars bound by Love. The canvas is large and the figures life size, and is said to be of the quality of the Rape of Europa, only better preserved. Venus is seen at the left, her dark blue mantle falling from her shoulders, her figure almost nude, and her left arm resting on the shoulder of the god of war. Mars is in full armor, a rich purple cloak falling from his shoulder to his feet. A Cupid is binding the two together with a pink ribbon. In the background another Cupid holds the charger and sword of Mars. The picture was secured in London, where it was in the Winbourne collection until 1903, when sold to a dealer at Christie's. It was one of the masterpieces taken to England in 1798, when the famous Duke of Orleans collection was broken up. It had been one of the features of the state room of Queen Christina of Sweden, who inherited it from Gustavus Adolphus, her father. He is supposed to have taken it from Prague in 1631.

CLOSING WEEK

OF ARIZONA'S CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 29.—The Arizona constitutional convention, which entered upon its closing week, so far as the actual drafting for the constitution is concerned.

A determined effort was made by Chairman Ingram of the public service corporation committee to have the corporation clause provide for the incorporation of public utilities, but the convention decided to limit the inquisitorial power of the state to public service corporations, and to building and loan, trust and insurance companies.

A measure prohibiting discrimination against any method of healing was adopted yesterday. The initiative and referendum was adopted 36 to 6.

FOOLISH THINGS WOMEN DO

Women put ammonia into the water when washing their hair, but have not calculated that it has a deadly effect upon the hair roots. It makes the hair thin and lifeless. Any tonic or invigorator containing alcohol is also dangerous. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali, and people who use them run the risk and danger of losing their hair. The best thing to use is a fine neutral soap, combined with Glycerin, Cocconut Oil, White of Eggs, and Salicylic Acid. These are the ingredients used in Birt's Head Wash, which is an absolutely reliable preparation, because it does not contain any ammonia, alcohol or free alkali. It makes the hair soft and glossy and removes scales and dandruff. At druggists, 25c and 50c.

HEARINGS GIVEN

Committee on Streets Met Last Night

AND PASSED UPON GRIST OF PETITIONS

Committee on Ordinance and Legislation Slammed Everything in Sight—No Three Year Terms For Superintendent of Streets or City Messenger

The committee on streets went to a viewing yesterday afternoon and last night gave hearings on several petitions for street improvements.

James Dow, Principal Wood of the Greenhedge school and others appeared in favor of the laying of a sidewalk of concrete or similar material abutting the premises of the Greenhedge school. The committee voted to recommend it.

The committee also voted in favor of the petition of Jeremiah Moynihan and others, that a sidewalk of edge-stones and curbs be laid in front of his premises at 12 and 14 Marsh street.

Curtis McEwan, Mr. Kappler and others favored the acceptance of Quebec street, from Maple street to Loudon street, and the committee voted to recommend it.

The committee voted to recommend the petition of Robert Campbell and others, that edge-stones be laid on both sides of Anderson street.

Richard Bray wanted a sidewalk in Whipple street accepted and it was so voted.

Ordinances Voted Down

The committee on ordinance and legislation held a meeting last night and gave everything a slam that came its way. The first up was an ordinance requesting the approval of all plans of school buildings by the school department. Alderman Connors thought no action should be taken in the matter until the inspector of public buildings, the superintendent of schools and the chairman of the school board could be heard relative to the proposed plans.

An ordinance amending chapter 30 of the city charter and providing for a three-year term for the superintendent of streets, and also an ordinance favoring a three-year term for the city messenger were also voted down. An ordinance to the effect that the tax bills be made and sent out by the assessors' department instead of by the city treasurer was defeated. Another ordinance defeated by the committee was to the effect that for each piece of real estate owned by an individual a separate tax bill should be made out.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 29.—A. B. Spear, former cashier of the Oberlin National bank looted by Cassie Chadwick of $300,000, or more, died suddenly here last night.

Less than a year ago Mr. Spear was discharged from the penitentiary at Columbus, after serving a seven year term for his share in the Chadwick swindle. Almost immediately he came to this city and began work for the Michigan State Telephone company. At the time of his death he was traveling auditor. His death followed an operation for appendicitis.

The charge on which he was convicted was concealing the condition of a national bank.

THREE KILLED ONE WAS KILLED AFTER SIX YEARS

Train Struck Crowded Surrey at Canton, O.

CANTON, O., Nov. 29.—Three persons were killed and two badly hurt when a Wheeling & Lake Erie train struck a crowded Surrey shortly before 9 o'clock last night at the Maple avenue crossing. The dead: MRS. JOSEPH H. MEYERS, MORRIS RESS, 24, JACOB RESS, 16.

The injured: Miss Emma Meyers, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Meyers, leg broken, internal injuries, probably will recover. William Levin, 13 years, scalp wound, may have fractured skull, probably will recover.

Miss Meyers and Morris Ress were to have been married Jan. 1. The party was on its way from North Canton to the city. There are no gates or watchman at the Maple avenue crossing. According to the railroad officials, the train was making probably 20 or 25 miles an hour and the Surrey was almost squarely across the track when the train struck it.

The two lovers fell near together and the girl, when she recovered consciousness, crawled a few paces to the rear of the train. They were borne away together in the same ambulance. It is feared that the shock of Ress' death will prove too much for the exhausted strength of the girl.

LUCKY ESCAPE

BOY IN ROWBOAT IN STORM LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—An overgrown lad tossed on the troubled waters of Hell Gate last night for more than an hour, was twice capsized in his skiff by the wash of passing steamers, pulled himself out of the freezing cold river and was finally picked up unhurt by a harbor patrol and carried back to Ward's Island, where all the guards of the Manhattan state hospital for the insane had been looking for him since early afternoon.

Benjamin Sam is the lad and he is 15 years old. Yesterday afternoon he had used an abandoned rowboat until dark and then launched it into the swift tide without oars. He had a paddle, but it was useless in the currents that race through Hell Gate. Without a light, as he was, it is a mystery why he was not run down by the steamer. He was committed to the institution as insane some months ago.

STURGIS DEPUTIES

WILL GET PAY FROM THE COUNTIES

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 29.—That the appointment of deputies to enforce the Sturgis law, or any other state law, and the assessment of the costs upon the county in which such deputies act, is not in violation of the constitutional rights of such county, was the decision handed down yesterday by Chief Justice Emery. His decision was rendered in the case of Penobscot county, against whom the state treasurer, Pascal F. Gilmore, brought action to recover $20,000 to pay the expense of Sturgis deputies operating within its borders. In his opinion, Justice Emery says:

"The constitution does not plainly prohibit the legislature from imposing upon a county the expense of enforcing the laws of the state within that county and the power to do so has been exercised so long without question it must be held to be a constitutional power of the legislature, even if otherwise questionable."

Twin Sisters Struck by Locomotive

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Watching with tearful solicitude over her 14-year-old daughter Hester, who was brought home to her last night seriously injured, as the result of being struck by a freight train in East Everett, Mrs. Antoinette Desfano, a widow, of 42 Williams street, Chelsea, has thus far been kept in ignorance of the fact that Hester's twin sister was ground to death under the wheels of the big locomotive. The condition of Hester is so encouraging as to warrant hopes of her recovery. Mrs. Desfano has four other children living. She came to this country from Italy eight years ago.

Mary and Hester had started for home from the Everett factory where they have been employed, and, as has been their custom, they took to the Boston & Maine tracks. When near the East Everett station, to avoid an express train, they stepped over onto the Boston & Albany tracks, which run parallel. Coming in the opposite direction was a freight train which neither of them noticed until it was right upon them. Mary was out to places, but her sister, who was struck a glancing blow, was knocked to one side of the tracks. She was picked up unconscious and sent to her home.

ELECTRIC WORKERS

HAVE SPLIT IN THEIR UNION IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—President James Kirby in his annual report to the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor at its annual meeting yesterday, advised all counsels with which the field faction of the electrical workers is affiliated, to unseat this faction. He urged that all possible assistance be rendered the international electrical workers in reorganizing their union.

The split in the electrical workers was the cause of much dissension during the convention of the American Federation of Labor last week. President McNulty and the so-called "regulars" have the favor of the federation.

MUTINOUS CREW

LANDED IN IRONS IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The British freighter Clan McLean, from the far east, came to anchor in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty yesterday with half of her crew, prisoners between decks. Her captain took on a batch of Spaniards at Gibraltar, to replace Lascars who had proved troublesome and when they came in sight of America they refused to work. The officers had to drive the mutineers back from the bridge by firing revolver shots over their heads.

ADVANCE IN FREIGHT SUDDEEN DEATHS

Trans-Continental Officials Contemplate 25 P. C. Increase

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Trans-continental railroad officials, in session in Chicago, are planning an advance in freight rates between Chicago, New York, Boston, and other eastern points and the Pacific coast. The advance contemplates an increase amounting to 25 and 39 per cent, according to a news article in the Tribune yesterday. A plan is contemplated which will increase the rate between Chicago and New York by 25 per cent, and the rate between Chicago and the Pacific coast by 39 per cent. The advance materially the advantage over Chicago, which New York and Atlantic seaboard shippers have enjoyed in the past. The rates from Chicago and New York to the coast heretofore have been the same. Under the proposed schedule not yet endorsed by the interstate-commerce commission, the rate from Chicago to the Pacific is raised 50 cents a hundred pounds but New York has a dollar added to the tariff its shippers now pay for freights from there to the Pacific coast. The trans-continental lines are now in conference over their proposed through schedule increase. In their effort they seek shelter under the amendment to the "long and short haul" clause of the interstate-commerce law effective Feb. 17. The railroads seek this increase as an alternative. They say they do not want to be forced by the government to reduce their rates to intermediate points in the west, which, in some cases, are higher than the existing through rate to the coast. Alarm in this direction, the roads claim, is justified by the action of the interstate-commerce commission, the Spokane rate case where the original rate from eastern

Joseph Bilodeau Died Suddenly Last Evening

Another sudden death occurred last night when Joseph Bilodeau, aged 38, died at the Lowell General hospital after an illness of a little less than three hours. Bilodeau, who was a stonecutter by trade, lost consciousness after reaching his home, 53 French street, shortly before 5 o'clock last night. Dr. O'Brien was summoned and he ordered the patient to be removed to the hospital, where he died at 6:30 o'clock. The body was removed to Undertaker Amedeo Archambault's morgue. The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Bilodeau, and several sisters and brothers of Augusta, Me.

Lorenzo, Blanchette, aged 3 years, 6 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bilodeau of 18 Gardner avenue, died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his parents. The little one suffered from violent convulsions a month ago, but since then had been apparently well. Yesterday morning the mother on going to the child's crib found that he was dead.

LONG AND SHORT

Odd Pair of Stowaways Discovered in Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The strangest pair of stowaways ever brought to Boston arrived yesterday on the British tank bark Sunlight, which was towed up the harbor late in the afternoon and was taken to the pier of the Boston Molasses company at South Boston. They were Leonard Matthews, a negro giant, fully 7 feet in height, and John Jacob, also colored, who stands 4 feet 6 inches in his stockings. While the bark was taking on cargo at San Pedro de Macoris, San Domingo, Matthews and Jacob, who belong in Macoris, stole on board and hid in one of the lifeboats. Matthews occupied about all the room in the boat and Jacob was squeezed into such a small space that he was uncomfortable. The movement of the canvas cover of the boat as Jacob tried to ease his cramped body attracted the attention of one of the officers when the vessel was seven hours out from port. The boat cover was removed and everyone on board was amazed at the sight of the giant and his diminutive companion.

Jacob said that Matthews was the strongest man in all San Domingo and that he could easily whip Jack Johnson. He is a skilled boxer, too, and it was said on board the vessel that he stole his passage to try and get a match with the champion heavyweight. Matthews told of remarkable feats of strength performed by the modern Hercules on the trip. After the two negroes were given something to eat they were set to work assisting the crew. Matthews spent his spare time lifting the great iron rollers and doing other remarkable feats of strength. Both stowaways were barred from entry into the country and will have to go back when the bark leaves here. When told they would have to return they did not seem to mind it a bit. Matthews grinned as he was led to a room to be locked up. The Sunlight was 36 days on the passage. Up to Cape Hatteras baffling winds and calms kept the vessel making her usual time. Off Hatteras she ran into a furious gale and before it moderated a section of her sparker raft, 10 feet long, was broken off. The distance from Macoris is only 1500 miles.

The Sunlight came around Cape Cod last Friday when the 60-mile-an-hour northeaster was doing things outside. Capt. Crowley edged his way into the bay and worked his vessel into a comparatively smooth water about a mile off Wood End. There the bark remained at anchor until the tug Mercury went out yesterday morning and took her in tow. The Sunlight brought in 375,000 gallons of molasses, which will be used for distilling purposes. She also had 400 feet of mahogany.

MAN MURDERED AND HIS COMPANIONS RAN AWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—One of a group of four well-dressed men, apparently all Americans, was shot dead as he was walking along Harlem street early today. According to the only known witness of the shooting, Vincent Blende, an occupant of a nearby apartment house on East 125th street, from which the group had just emerged, the man was shot by one of his companions, who then ran off. There was nothing about the murdered man to identify him. His clothing was of good quality. The label of a Broadway clothing store on his coat gave the police their only clue to work upon. The authorities are seeking the dead man's companions.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair easy so it was impossible to comb it or to put it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but he has actually restored all of his hair to its natural color. He can obtain the ingredients for making his wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:
Ray Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, 1/4 drachm; Lavender de Composee, 2 oz.; If you like it perfumed add a few drops of To-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary.
Be sure to ask the druggist for all the ingredients in the Lavona de Composee package. One of them entitles you to a handsome free sprigler top for your hair tonic bottle and you are also entitled to receive the free advice of an expert on the hair by simply writing to the address you will find enclosed in the carton.
Apply night and morning: rub thoroughly into the scalp.
Go to your druggist and ask for an eight ounce bottle containing six ounces of Ray Rum; also one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Lavona de Composee. Mix the ingredients together in your own home. Add the Menthol Crystals to the Ray Rum and then pour in the Lavona de Composee and add the To-Kalon Perfume. Let stand one-half hour and it is ready for use.
Riker-Jaynes Drug company, the well known and popular druggists of this city, have filled this formula with many of their patrons and state that the satisfaction from its use is so great that they have found it necessary to make special provision to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

BONELLA "CAME BACK"

And Captured Atlantic Port of Honduras

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Nov. 29.—Advices today from Tegucigalpa state that the Atlantic ports of Honduras and the department of Comayagua have been captured by revolutionists under the leadership of former President Manuel Bonilla. Government forces sent to retake the territory joined the enemy.

General Bonilla attempted an unsuccessful revolt against the government of President Davila last summer. Later he sought refuge in Guatemala from which country he was deported. Recently he was reported to be in New Orleans organizing an expedition which was to attack the Atlantic coast of Honduras. Bonilla's cause was helped somewhat by the rebellion of Gen. Jose Valladares, the governor of the island of Amapala. The latter was recently deposed and came to this country.

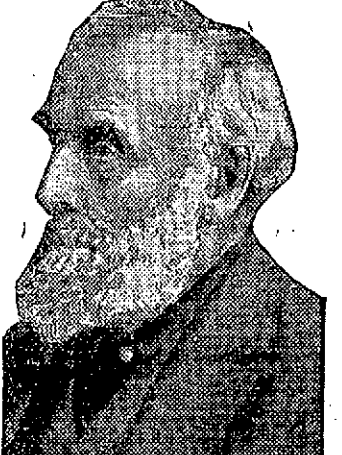

TOLSTOI'S SON

Bitterly Denounces His Father's Friend

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—Count Leo Tolstol publishes a bitter denunciation of Count Tschertkoff, the literary friend and agent of the late Count Tolstol. The son declares that Tschertkoff was the worst enemy his father had in all educated Russia and the civilized world and that he was directly guilty of the tragedy of Yasunya Poliana. "The malign influence of Tschertkoff," writes Count Leo, "caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family."
But for his literary agent, the son adds, his father would have lived for many years peacefully at Yasunya Poliana with the family who loved him and whom he loved devotedly.

Aeroplane Inventor

Kept Strong and Vigorous to the Age of 80 and Enabled to Live to See His Life's Work Crowned With Success.

MR. HENRY CLARKE MOORE, of Tama, Iowa, who is 90 years of age, has just completed his first flying machine. His brain has been kept clear and alert, and the perfection of his invention made possible by the daily use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as his only invigorator and tonic-stimulant.

In an interview with our correspondent he said: "For several years I have been greatly troubled with dormant and sluggish action of the lower bowels, which caused me intense suffering. No treatment seemed to benefit me until finally I was induced to try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It gave me immediate relief. I steadily gained my health and strength, until now I am as vigorous and active as a man of 60 years of age. My mind is as clear as it ever was, and I have done some of the best work on my invention the last few years, which proves my mental and physical condition."

"Please bear in mind that I am a temperance man and do not advise any one to use alcoholic beverages except as a medicine, but I do firmly advise all old people and those who are run down to use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as I have, as I believe it is the greatest support to those who are weakened by age. In my case it stimulated and built me up; it quickened my circulation and made me feel more alert and able to do things."

I will be very glad if my interview will be the means of saving some of my poor sisters and brothers who before this have not heard of the great good they may receive from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

Thousands of letters like this one from Mr. Moore are received from men and women in all walks of life who have been restored to normal health by the use of the world's greatest tonic-stimulant.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk. Look for the trade mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price, $1.00 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for doctor's advice and an illustrated medical booklet containing testimonials and rare common sense rules for health, both sent free.

NO HALF FARES

Boston & Northern in Trouble at Lynn

LYNN, Nov. 29.—The alleged refusal of the Boston & Northern street railway to comply with the state statute which provides half rates of fare for the pupils in evening schools will be taken up and prosecuted by the Lynn school board at a meeting tonight.

Oliver Willcomb, chairman of the evening schools, recently addressed a communication to the officials of the Boston & Northern road in which he called attention to the existence of the statute in question and the officials of the road replied that after conferring with their counsel the company feels that it is within its rights in failing to grant the half rates of fare. Mr. Willcomb has referred the matter to Mayor Ritch, who in turn has instructed City Solicitor Wadleigh to give the school department any assistance it requires in the enforcement of the provisions of the statute. The school department officials declared today that they were prepared to carry the question to the Massachusetts supreme court to determine the constitutionality of the statute.

Mayflower," said the president. "Time was when I thought those who came over in the Mayflower plumed themselves as belonging to the aristocracy of the nation. On the contrary, I believe now that they showed a humility and proper spirit of republicanism and democracy."

"Speaking of the reason why the landing of the Pilgrims was so important in the early history of the United States, President Taft said it was because the Pilgrims were among the first who 'landed and stuck in that country of pleasant summer residences'—New England.

"They showed the uses and needs of a written constitution," he continued. "They showed a great capacity for self-government, that, without making invidious comparisons, has lent moral fibre and moral duty to the whole settlement of the United States."

HANK GRIFFIN

DISLOCATED SHOULDER IN BOUT WITH O'KELLY.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Hank Griffin, a giant negro from the west, whom Con. O'Kelly, Tommy Ryan's protegee, recently met in a slashing go at Utica, had his shoulder dislocated in the second round of a second battle with O'Kelly here last night. The injury came during a head clinch, on the ropes. Griffin concealed the gravity of his injury from his seconds and went on for two rounds more, though in evident distress. Early in the fourth round, while O'Kelly was knocking Griffin about the ring, the negro's seconds threw up the sponge.

STILL BENEATH

DREXEL HAS NOT RECORD FOR ALTITUDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The national council of the Aero Club of America is credited by the New York American with finding that J. Armstrong Drexel is still beneath the world's altitude record for an aeroplane established at Belmont park by Ralph Johnstone, and that the corrected buoyant reading of his flight at Philadelphia last Wednesday gives only 9450 feet against Johnstone's mark of 9714. Drexel has hitherto been credited with 9970 feet. The ink gave out in his barograph and he believes himself that he went higher than 10,000. It is understood that he will try again.

$150,000 GIFT

Taylor of Vassar college, announced before the chapel exercises last night that Mrs. Russell Sage had presented Vassar with $150,000 for the construction of a new residence hall or dormitory. The gift was made two weeks ago but it was not until yesterday that President Taylor was given by Mrs. Sage permission to make it public.

SHOT HIMSELF

Embezzler Tufts of the Rockport Bank-Suicides

ROCKPORT, Nov. 20.—Appearing at the residence of former President Loring Grimes of the Rockport National bank, late yesterday afternoon, George W. Tufts, former cashier of that institution, who was under indictment for alleged misappropriation of the bank's funds and was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity, before being sentenced, called Mr. Grimes to the door and after a short conversation, shot himself dead with a big Derringer revolver, dropping on the doorstep at Mr. Grimes' feet.

His act was so sudden Mr. Grimes had no opportunity to prevent it. With an abrupt move, the former cashier pulled open his coat, then his vest, hauled out the pistol and placing it firmly against his heart, fired one shot, which caused death almost instantly. Mr. Grimes summoned Dr. A. M. Tupper and then the police. The body was taken to an undertaker's and the suicide's widow and son were notified.

Mr. Grimes' wife was Tufts' aunt. The Grimes home, at Main and Cleave streets, is only a few minutes' walk from the Tufts residence. Mr. Tufts left town yesterday morning, without telling anybody where he was going. He returned on a late afternoon train and walked to the Grimes house, coming from the direction of Gloucester. Mr. Tufts was 52 years old. For 25 years he had been one of the most prominent figures in Rockport. He came into the Rockport National bank from the cotton mill and worked up to cashier, although the salary paid never exceeded $1000 annually. He took an active part in the town's running and was a ready, snappy debater. About ten years ago he was elected town treasurer, which position he held for two years. For one year he was a selectman. During that period he had a controversy with Chief of Police John Sullivan, exciting a string of infamously untrue charges against the integrity of the liquor law and personally assuming control of the force.

Mr. Tufts lived simply and his only fads were chicken raising and gardening. Although a severe man in his criticism of others, he had always been held above suspicion as regards his personal integrity and his arrest last July on a charge of defalcation took the town by surprise.

COURT ON TRAIN

JUDGE THORNTON HEARD CASE ON THE WING

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Passengers on a train between Port Jervis and Binghamton yesterday were treated to an odd scene when W. L. Thornton, judge and surrogate of Sullivan county, held surrogate court between these two points as the train was on its way.

Judge Thornton had made arrangements to hear the will case of the late George W. Gould of Long Eddy, and when he was called suddenly to Binghamton he decided to hold court on the train.

Accordingly the Gould heirs and their attorneys joined him at Port Jervis and by the time the train had left the station the party was in the midst of the proceedings, which continued to a short distance of Binghamton, where Judge Thornton promised to give a decision within two weeks. The value of the estate is about $200,000.

STOWAWAYS

CAPTURED ON FRUIT VESSEL AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 20.—Suspected stowaways were found yesterday by immigration officials hiding in a cargo of bananas in the hold of the Norwegian steamship Juan, which reached here yesterday from Port Antonio, Jamaica. They were taken to the local immigration department, where they will have a hearing. Captain Larsen and the crew of the Juan will appear before the officials to tell what they know about the Chinamen.

GRAHAME WHITE

WILL OPEN AVIATION SCHOOL IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 20.—Plans for an intercollegiate glider meet next June and the erection of an inclined plane at the Atlantic field in Squantum for the launching of gliders were discussed last night at the second annual meeting of the Harvard Aeronautical society at Harvard union.

Adams Claffin, manager of the recent Harvard-Boston aero meet, announced that Claude Grahame-White, the British aviator, would next summer open an aviation school in Boston.

SISTER'S SANITY

IS THE PRICE OF HOLT'S FREEDOM

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Sobbing bitterly as he answered the questions of his attorney, John Holt, 28, of Roxbury, when arraigned in the superior criminal court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Sallie E. Singleton, colored, deceased, Judge Stevens that upon the outcome of his trial hinged not only the sanity of his 19-year-old sister, but the welfare of his father and mother, who depend upon him for support.

The young man said his arrest had led to the breaking down of his sister's mental faculties, and that she is under treatment in an institution, haunted by the fear he would be incarcerated in jail. Both his parents, he told the court, are in ill health, and his father is unable to do any work.

Judge Stevens called the district attorney to the bench and conferred with him. Holt was excused until today, when he will know his fate.

SECRET SOCIETIES

ARE TABOOED BY MOUNT HOLYOKE FACULTY

SOUTH HADLEY, Nov. 20.—Announcement has been made by the faculty of Mount Holyoke college for the abolition of the so-called societies existing among the students. This decree will not become effective at once, but with the admission of members of 1913 to the societies, they will cease to perpetuate themselves by the election of new members.

No clumsy pan to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor.

ULSTER FACTION

Says It Will Not Obey Dublin Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 20.—With the dissolution of parliament yesterday all formalities preliminary to the election of a new parliament were completed. The proclamation of dissolution summoned the new parliament to assemble on January 31, 1911. Among the first of its members to be elected unopposed will be Arthur J. Balfour, the opposition leader, the Liberals having decided not to contest his seat for the city of London. On the stock exchange, where regular dealings have been instituted in bets on the election, the feeling yesterday seemed to anticipate a reduction in the Liberal majority. In Ireland the struggle is growing more bitter every day. A meeting of delegates representing every Ulster constituency was held in Belfast yesterday, at which a resolution was adopted on motion of a Presbyterian minister, to draw up a solemn declaration refusing to pay rates or taxes imposed by a Dublin parliament or obey its decrees, while $50,000 was subscribed on the spot to organize the Ulster men into regiments and purchase arms.

PISTOL DUEL

POLICEMAN AND BURGLAR ARE KILLED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—During a pistol duel at 42d and Pine streets last night, Policeman Barnett was shot through the spine and died in the University hospital, and an unknown man, supposed to be a burglar, was shot and killed.

Barnett was in civil dress, and had been sent to watch the locality because a number of burglaries recently were committed there.

At 40th and Pine streets he saw two men who aroused his suspicions and followed them. They separated at 42nd street and he followed one who entered an alley. When he began to question the man, the latter drew a revolver and shot him through the body. As the policeman fell he drew his own pistol and fired two shots at his assailant. The latter dropped dead with bullets in his hip and abdomen. The dead man was about 26 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. The tags had been carefully removed from his tailor-made garments but his raincoat was of a Philadelphia make and the shoes had been made in Boston. He had $183 in his pockets. The policeman was removed to the hospital in an automobile which had been attracted to the scene by the shots. The body of the dead man was taken to the morgue.

DRUGGISTS' BANQUET

A. M. Dows and Sam McCord, who are members of the Boston Druggists' association, will attend a banquet at Young's hotel this evening, and District Attorney Higgins will address the gathering. His subject will be "The Treatment of Criminals."

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies of known composition. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-wood." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

DEFENCE WINS POINT

EXTRA IN LEBLANC CASE MAYOR MEEHAN

FIREMEN FROZEN

No Heat at the Central Fire Station Today

The weather prophet has prognosticated that a cold wave is due and if his predictions are carried out, the firemen who are quartered at the central fire station at the corner of Palmer and Middle streets stand a chance of being frozen to death for at the present time there is no heating apparatus in the building and it is doubtful if any steam will be sent through the pipes and radiators of the building until Saturday or Sunday.

The reason for the lack of steam is that the antiquated boiler which has done service at the house for about 22 years has been removed and men are at work putting in a new one. The old boiler which has been condemned by the insurance companies had been in the house since 1885 and when it was installed it was an old one—how old no one seems to know, though several people have intimated that it was brought over in Noah's ark. At any rate the department has been wasting coal and securing much less heat than it should have owing to the defective boiler. Although Chief Hosmer has been trying to have a new boiler installed the lack of appropriation prevented him from securing one until this year.

Yesterday the old boiler was removed and today the brick masons are hustling along with the foundation work and just as soon as that is finished the boiler will be put in place. The boiler is of a similar pattern to the one removed, it being of the tubular pattern, the only difference being that there are several more tubes on the new one.

The only heat—outside of hot air furnished by the firemen during their arguments—that is in the house at the present time is emanating from a couple of gas stoves, but the firemen are delighted to think that before many days will have passed they will be enjoying plenty of heat.

FRACTURED ANKLE

Michael McNerney in a Critical Condition

Friends of Michael McNerney of 458 Broadway, who was injured and badly scalded by the parting of a train in the North station Sunday night, have received word from the Massachusetts general hospital that he is in a very serious condition. ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE NO. CHELMSFORD CRICKET CLUB SATURDAY

The North Chelmsford Cricket and Athletic association will hold its annual general meeting and banquet in the town hall on Saturday next, Dec. 3d, 1910. The meeting for the election of officers, etc. will be held in the lower town hall in the afternoon, when President Albert B. Metcalfe will call the members to order promptly at 2:15 o'clock, and as the year's business is to come before the meeting, it is hoped that each and every member will be there promptly on time. At 6 o'clock promptly the banquet will be served and at 7:30 the people will adjourn to the upper hall where a splendid concert has been arranged for. The officers are making a special effort to have this one of the best times in the history of the club, and hope to see a large gathering present.

Judge Bond Rules Out Glover's Dying Declaration

DISTRICT ATTORNEY HIGGINS FOR THE PROSECUTION

HATTIE LEBLANC THE DEFENDANT LISTENING TO THE CHARGE AGAINST HER

JUDGE BOND ON THE BENCH

MELVIN M. JOHNSON FOR THE DEFENCE

SKETCHES AT THE LEBLANC TRIAL YESTERDAY

As Part of Government's Opening Argument After Hearing Evidence and Arguments That Took Today's Entire Session

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 29.—Judge Bond after hearing arguments of counsel ruled that the government in its opening argument must not refer in any way to the alleged ante mortem statement of Glover accusing Hattie LeBlanc of shooting him. Judge Bond said that tomorrow he will deliver his finding whether such evidence may be introduced into the trial.

TODAY'S SESSION

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 29.—The second day of the trial of Hattie LeBlanc for the murder of Clarence F. Glover, who was mortally shot in his laundry at Waltham a year ago, having been set by jury. The jury view of points of interest, the government proceeded today to lay the plot of its case before the jury and to call the testifying actors on to the legal stage. In the old Middlesex county court house, in the old Cambridge, before District Attorney Higgins could utter a word to the jury regarding what he hopes to prove against the child-like Cape Breton defendant, there came a word of protest from M. L. Johnson, long years of procedure in admitting the leading counsel for the girl, against the more mention by the district attorney of any "dying statement" by Glover. A good representation of the Middlesex bar was in the audience to hear the arguments on this basic point in the government's case, for it was, generally believed that on the decision of Judge Bond the question of its admission would have an important bearing on the entire case.

Mr. Johnson contended that until the girl was led by her female attendant to the Massachusetts mills between the noon hour and one o'clock today. As was the case at the Lowell Machine shop, yesterday, Mr. Meehan handled his opponent without gloves and asked him a number of pertinent questions. The crowd was with the mayor. In part, he said: Fellow citizens: A year ago through your assistance I was elected mayor of this city. Today I again solicit your votes for the coming election. When on January last I took the oath of office I promised to give a clean decent administration. I believe from the bottom of my heart that I have fulfilled my obligations. I had turned over to me a city disrupted in its organization. There had been warfare between the members of the city government and the mayor, and there had been warfare between the heads of departments and the chief executive. There was fever and turmoil on all sides. The total of city expenditures for departments had increased almost $100,000 and there was a general distrust.

The employees of city hall or many of them had been called hard names, and charges and counter charges were a part of the daily doings of municipal life. The city of Lowell itself was made the feature of discreditable headlines not only in Lowell but in all parts of the country and stories of the doings were spread not by Lowell newspapermen, but by special writers attracted by the conditions which furnished him copy for them and unfortunate copy for the city as a whole. "When I saw this in mind there was only one course for me to take—to get matters back to a safe and sane basis and that is what I believe has been accomplished. "Lowell, during my administration, has not been made a subject of excitement and indiscriminate headlines, but its reputation has shown a good healthy upbraid. "Although the republicans have had a majority in the city council I have not felt obliged to call any member of that body a liar, and during my term of service no citizen has yet been unable to get a full hearing at my office no matter what his complaint. "I cannot think that either the city or I myself have lost a whit by this change of system. Certainly the greetings given me on the street as I was coming over this way did not hint at it, and the expressions of appreciation which have come to me since the caucuses do not hint at any dissatisfaction. Gentlemen, Lowell is our city, and it needs a boost rather than a knock. We are living in a city which is the fourth in population in the state, and is the sixth richest of all the municipalities. We have great possibilities in the increase of our industries. We have an importance which is bound to grow.

for the second day of the struggle in which her life is at stake.

Defence is Elated

The defense was considerably elated when Judge Bond ruled that the government must prove to his satisfaction that Glover made a dying statement and also whether he was in a state of recovery just before his death. Judge Bond ordered the jury excluded until the government's witnesses were heard.

Jury and Witnesses Excluded

Not only were the jurymen kept out of the courtroom but all the witnesses were barred. Miss LeBlanc was quite nervous when her father, who had been sitting close to her, followed the word of the witnesses out of the room.

District Attorney Higgins, after expressing a little surprise at the situation, said that he was unprepared for such a decision and had only a few witnesses present. He began, however, by calling a grocery clerk, Herman King, who discovered Glover kneeling on the piazza of Dr. Conzen's hospital. King said that Glover remarked: "I'm shot; I can't live."

When asked who shot him, Glover said: "A woman." King said he pressed Glover to tell her name but it was only after being asked several times that Glover said: "Hattie LeBlanc," and then gave her address on Main street.

Under cross-examination King could not remember whether Glover had said: "Operate on me quickly or I'm gone."

T. P. Connor, who followed King to the piazza, also heard Glover say that he had been shot by a woman. Connor said he urged Glover to tell who it was. "He seemed to hesitate," said the witness, "but after I repeated the question several times he at last said, 'It was Hattie LeBlanc.'" Connor heard Glover say, "It's all off, I'm going to die." He heard carry the wounded man into the house and saw a doctor give him a hypodermic injection. He denied to Attorney Johnson that he heard Glover plead to be operated on.

Four Witnesses who said they stood around Glover and heard him declare that Hattie LeBlanc shot him, testified, before the government this afternoon had produced the first physician, Dr. E. P. Dowd. From this physician the district attorney drew the admission that Glover was told of his doom, that there was never any hope for the man, that there was a hurried consultation regarding an operation but that Glover failed to respond to a powerful injection and the operation was decided to be unnecessary. Dr. Dowd said that after Glover had been told that he could not live he repeated several times that Hattie LeBlanc shot him.

Dr. George McDonald, another of the attending physicians, said that Glover was not told that he was dying but was informed that his chances were slim. When asked if his wife should be sent for, Glover seemed to hesitate and then said, "Yes, she will not shoot me."

Police Sergeant Curran of Waltham signed a statement after Glover's death embodying what Glover had said before death. He also interviewed Mrs. Glover and asked her if she shot her husband. She replied: "No, no, no."

Our arrests are among the smallest of all cities of our same approximate size, and our low percentages of fire losses bespeak a well conducted fire department. Morally, this is one of the cleanest cities in the country. It is the cleanest of all the exclusively manufacturing communities, not only in Massachusetts, but New England.

This is what we have at hand, this is what we have to offer to the outside world. How is the growth which we deserve to be best encouraged? Is it by maligning the city as a whole? Is it by making it a laughing stock for the world?

Will capital seeking a location hunt out a municipality where the mayor stands railing from the steps of city hall and telling of men he is going to drive out of town or of the crooks and grafters whom he says he will expose? That is what you want to think over today. That is what must sink into your minds.

The personal ambitions of myself and my opponent to be mayor of the city are interesting in part, but which man is going to be best for the city of Lowell? That is the point for you to consider.

In the case of cities, as well as men, there comes a time when a little plain speaking has to be indulged in. I intend to do it throughout this campaign. I am not going to inflict on you my impressions of one of my opponents, but I am going to ask him certain questions and let him explain himself. In that case you cannot and he cannot claim any bias.

Mayor Meehan here dwelt at length upon characters common about town who know everything about everybody's business, and expatiate on their own failures by saying that everybody is against them, everybody is rubbing it into them, when in reality such is not the case.

What do you think of such characters? Mayor Meehan criticized his predecessor in office for making charges of grafting and having shown practically nothing to substantiate those charges. His Honor mentioned the removal of an old soldier from the state aid department, one who served his country with honor in the War of the rebellion, and the removal of a young woman, the sole support of a widowed mother.

Mayor Meehan also criticized his predecessor for failing to appoint one of the plain people on the police commission.

The mayor then returned to the question of why Messrs. Harris and MacBrayne in their letter of resignation stated that they could not hold office under the then mayor and retain their self-respect.

"I demand an answer to that question from any republican opponent," not from Mr. MacBrayne," said His Honor.

"The people of Lowell also want an answer to this question. My predecessor has an opportunity to explain and clear up a matter that is involved in mystery."

6 O'CLOCK GOVERNOR POTTHIER

Addresses a Conference of Governors at Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 28.—The third conference of governors began here today. Governor Wilson of Kentucky and Mayor Polsgrove of Frankfort welcomed the visitors. Governor Pothier of Rhode Island responded and Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey spoke of the possibilities of this conference.

As the governors are to be at Frankfort only today, citizens crowded into the hall to see the conference. Governor Wilson will let nothing interfere with the program, particularly in a political way. The visitors will be received as guests, not as politicians. Neither will the time of any one of them be taken up by making a speech or any function if the requests of Kentucky's governor are heeded.

GOV. POTTHIER'S SPEECH

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 28.—Replying to Governor Wilson's address of welcome at the third annual conference of governors, this afternoon Governor Pothier of Rhode Island, speaking for the organization, spoke of the good work which it is possible for such a body to do in the matter of bringing about a closer relation between the states of the Union by uniform laws. He reviewed the conditions in his home state, Rhode Island, which is being dealt along conservation and other lines and of the feeling which is prevalent in regard to the question of direct nomination and election of United States senators.

He said in part: "This is a proud occasion for Kentucky. It marks the crystallization of a movement begun a little more than three years ago—a movement which is destined to establish a new relationship between the states of the Union. The two previous conferences of governors demonstrated the possibilities of such an institution.

The province of an organization of state governors, as has been pointed out, is along lines separate and distinct from the functions of the United States congress. The latter, while similar in the fact of its being a body made up of representatives of the different states, legislates primarily for the federal government for the Union as a whole. The governor's conference, while it may not, and certainly should not be, a legislative body, it is a body which seeks as its main object a closer union between the states through state laws, insofar as it is practicable to bring this about.

It is hardly expected that one speaking at this juncture in a discussion of any of these questions, I feel, however, that I must take this opportunity to state that Rhode Island is as greatly interested as any state in the Union in watching the tendency toward progressive legislation in her sister commonwealths; that although traditionally conservative, she has not been unresponsive to the changes which the times and advanced thought have wrought in governmental policies and methods.

"In some respects she has been and is a pioneer, but she has hesitated to adopt some of the measures that have been labeled progressive, until satisfied by the experiences of others, that those measures were wise and sound, and not inimical to the principles of representative government.

"On the question of the popular nomination and election of United States senators, Rhode Island officially has taken no stand. Politically this has been made a party issue there, which is only natural. In view of the fact that the party which has elected its candidates to the national senate, apparently is satisfied with the present situation, while the opposing party, which so far has been unable to secure representation in that body, is desirous of a change.

"As President Taft has said, the question is not one of party, and should not be determined by party considerations. It is not surprising, however, that in Rhode Island and in all the New England states where the republican party has controlled the election of senators for years, the democratic platforms contain this year a demand for such an amendment to the federal constitution.

"A peculiarity of Rhode Island law that is frequently commented upon is the so-called property qualification required of electors to entitle them to vote for members of city councils. The state constitution provides that no person shall at any time be allowed to vote in the election of the city council of any city, or upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money in any town or city, unless he shall within the year next preceding have paid a tax assessed upon his property therein valued at least at $334.

"The clause in this provision that has been subject to persistent attack is that which disfranchises non-property voters in city council elections. In the towns all electors are entitled to vote for members of town councils, but the latter bodies do not make appropriations, as do the city councils, and the taxpayers in the towns exercise their control over expenditures directly through municipal town meetings.

"This question, like the method of electing United States senators, manifestly should not be determined on party lines. It is only natural that registry or non-property-holding voters should desire the privilege of voting for members of city councils. The party which is seeking the control of government finds in these matters a powerful means for appealing to the electorate, and cannot be blamed for taking advantage of it in their platform; but the same question of the relative soundness of the existing and the proposed policy, rather than any question of partisan advantage should alone direct their determination.

"The question of the powers and responsibilities of the governor, which is to be discussed at this conference, will be of interest to Rhode Island. Appointments to boards and commissions there are usually made by the governor subject to confirmation by the state senate. A few years ago political differences between the governor and the general assembly led the latter to recall some of the authority which it had conferred upon the chief executive, so that at the present time, if the secretary of the conference is to consider it, and proceed to make its own selection to nearly every office.

"On the question of conservation, which this conference is to consider in its many phases, Rhode Island has within a few months taken a definite stand. The general assembly has established a continuing commission, made up of five department heads, the commissioner of industrial statistics, the commissioner of forestry, the secretary of the board of agriculture, the secretary of the Metropolitan park commission, and the director of the United States agricultural experiment station. The commission is now engaged in a survey and census of all the idle and unproductive land of the state. When completed this census will be present, in share for practical use, the state's natural resources of every description, and the uses to which the different varieties of its soil are adaptable. It is believed that this commission is unique in its composition. It establishes a permanent connection between the heads of the departments represented.

"I have spoken of these matters at this time, that something of Rhode Island's attitude may be better understood, and in the hope that what I have said may prove of interest and perhaps aid material for the discussions of the week."

WERE DRIFTING IN SCOW IN HIGH SEAS

GALILEE, N. J., Nov. 28.—Lifesavers put out from here today to the rescue of two men in a scow, which is believed to have broken loose from the ocean tow during the night and drifted ashore off this place. A heavy sea was running, impeding the lives of the stranded men on the scow, which threatened to go to pieces and making it difficult for the lifesavers to launch their craft.

After several starts the lifesavers put out in the direction of the stranded crew. The thick weather off shore prevented observation of what success attended their efforts.

The fire started from an unknown cause in the tempering room of the frame building occupied by the forging and tempering departments, destroying the structure with its machinery and stock.

Although the details have not yet been worked out the dormitory will be built during the coming year and probably will be located on the field north of Walker hall.

Mr. Pratt, who is connected with the Standard Oil Co., has previously made important donations to Amherst college.

NO "STOP-OFF"

WOOL PRIVILEGE AT DETROIT IS DENIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Denying a petition for the establishment of a "stop-off" privilege on wool at Detroit, the interstate commerce commission today announced that it had found that the present blanket anti-quantity rate of 50 cents per hundred pounds on wool "in the process" applying from Chicago, Detroit, and other points in the west was not unduly discriminatory or unreasonable as applied to Detroit. The "stop-off" privilege sought was for the purpose of storing, grading and resacking wool. The case decided was that of Traugott Schmidt & Sons, wool merchants at Detroit, against the Michigan Central and other railroads.

ROUGH ON JURORS THE LEBLANC TRIAL

Made 37 Mile Trip in Snow Storm

Deputy Sheriff Forgot to Take Money With Him and Jurors Had to Pay their Own Fares—Each Juror Carried a Lunch

GREENFIELD, Nov. 28.—In the face of a driving snowstorm, the twelve men who will decide the fate of Silas Phelps, the so-called "Monroe Bridge outlaw," who is on trial for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Haskins, left here today on a 37-mile trip to Moppon, where the crime was committed. The jury, which is carrying a lunch with them and all prepared to put in a hard day of mountain climbing and ploughing through the snow drifts. The jury will return to Greenfield at 5 p. m. and court will not resume its session until tomorrow, when District Attorney Richard Irving will present the government's case in outline.

The juryman were accompanied by a deputy sheriff and by representatives of counsel for the government and the defendant.

It was planned that when the party arrived at Monroe Bridge a visit would be made to the paper mill where Phelps was formerly employed and where he is alleged to have stabbed Supt. Benman. It was for this alleged offense that Deputy Sheriff Haskins attempted to arrest Phelps and was killed by a rifle shot alleged to have been fired by the defendant. From Monroe Bridge the juryman were expected to go to Phelps' home on Monroe mountain, where Haskins was shot, and afterwards to tramp up and down the mountainside, viewing the principal localities that came into prominence during the pursuit of the fugitive.

Today's trip of the jury to the scene of the crime was unique in that the juryman had to pay their own fares. This condition was due to the forgetfulness of the deputy sheriff in charge of the party. When the juryman were assembled at the station waiting for the train, the deputy discovered—but too late—that he had neglected to obtain from the county treasurer's office a check for the money necessary for available tickets. A hasty inventory of available funds was taken, each juror man contributing his share and the necessary cash was quickly raised by popular subscription. Each of the jurors then made a memorandum of an expenditure account to be presented to the county of Middlesex authorities later.

The knowledge that the public would not be admitted to the court room helped in some measure to keep people away from the court house during the early part of the day.

At 10 o'clock the jury were scarcely more than two scores of the curious standing outside the building in the hope of getting at least a fleeting glimpse of Hattie and the crowd had grown but little by noon time.

When it was known the jury had been impounded and its members would leave for Waltham between 2 and 3 o'clock the crowd soon doubled and tripled, and the group which climbed into the automobiles at 2:55 given a sendoff by at least 200 persons.

The strangest feature of the crowds came later in the afternoon, when the school children were freed from their classes. By tens and dozens they hurried to the court house and long before 5 o'clock a police guard was necessary to keep them lined up along the curbing.

The exodus of the shop girls and workers of various sorts at 5 o'clock and after served to swell the throng. Although the jurors had been and been passed on, Hattie was inside and would not cross the street until after Judge Bond dismissed the jury for the night, the crowd was patient.

Toward 6 o'clock the automobiles containing the jury, the district attorney and his assistants, Mr. Johnson and his associates and the newspaper men arrived in a cloud of dust, and the eagerness of the crowd was apparent at once.

A dozen policemen were there, and only a scant patrol kept the crowd in check.

Soon after 6 all knew Hattie must soon leave the court house. The crowd expected her to leave by the regular entrance to the sheriff's office, and there were relatively few banded below the jail across the street—mostly those who could find no room elsewhere.

Enters the Jail

Then, with those photographers who were not preparing for a flashlight skirmish around the Barker-Karpis case, the crowd suddenly went up—and the slender form of Hattie LeBlanc, surrounded by her protectors and guards, was seen to enter the lighted doorway of the jail.

The cheer continued long after she had disappeared for the night. Then the streets about the court house were black for a few minutes as people made for their homes—each determined to be on hand early in the morning for a daylight glimpse of the girl lighting for her life.

DYING DECLARATION

OBJECTED TO BY COUNSEL FOR DEFENCE

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 28.—After Clarence F. Glover, wounded by two bullets and suffering internal hemorrhage, had crawled to the door of Dr. Cullen's hospital in Waltham, Mass., to make a dying declaration, his counsel objected to the statement which has been termed a "dying declaration."

In answer to questions of the physicians, Glover stated that Hattie LeBlanc had shot him in the laundry room of the Boston Hotel, and that he had been shot in the back, and had been placed in bed, he made a statement, which has been termed a "dying declaration."

THE LOWELL SUN, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1910

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—President Taft today informed the cabinet, after scrutinizing the final draft of the tariff bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1911, that there must be a further and deeper cut in them and that they would not do in their present form.

Burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Dr. McHugh read the committal prayers. The interment and funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Thomas J. McDermott.

of counsel for the government and the defendant.

It was planned that when the party arrived at Monroe Bridge a visit would be made to the paper mill where Phelps was formerly employed and where he is alleged to have stabbed Supt. Benman. It was for this alleged offense that Deputy Sheriff Haskins attempted to arrest Phelps and was killed by a rifle shot alleged to have been fired by the defendant. From Monroe Bridge the juryman were expected to go to Phelps' home on Monroe mountain, where Haskins was shot, and afterwards to tramp up and down the mountainside, viewing the principal localities that came into prominence during the pursuit of the fugitive.

Today's trip of the jury to the scene of the crime was unique in that the juryman had to pay their own fares. This condition was due to the forgetfulness of the deputy sheriff in charge of the party. When the juryman were assembled at the station waiting for the train, the deputy discovered—but too late—that he had neglected to obtain from the county treasurer's office a check for the money necessary for available tickets. A hasty inventory of available funds was taken, each juror man contributing his share and the necessary cash was quickly raised by popular subscription. Each of the jurors then made a memorandum of an expenditure account to be presented to the county of Middlesex authorities later.

The knowledge that the public would not be admitted to the court room helped in some measure to keep people away from the court house during the early part of the day.

At 10 o'clock the jury were scarcely more than two scores of the curious standing outside the building in the hope of getting at least a fleeting glimpse of Hattie and the crowd had grown but little by noon time.

When it was known the jury had been impounded and its members would leave for Waltham between 2 and 3 o'clock the crowd soon doubled and tripled, and the group which climbed into the automobiles at 2:55 given a sendoff by at least 200 persons.

The strangest feature of the crowds came later in the afternoon, when the school children were freed from their classes. By tens and dozens they hurried to the court house and long before 5 o'clock a police guard was necessary to keep them lined up along the curbing.

The exodus of the shop girls and workers of various sorts at 5 o'clock and after served to swell the throng. Although the jurors had been and been passed on, Hattie was inside and would not cross the street until after Judge Bond dismissed the jury for the night, the crowd was patient.

Toward 6 o'clock the automobiles containing the jury, the district attorney and his assistants, Mr. Johnson and his associates and the newspaper men arrived in a cloud of dust, and the eagerness of the crowd was apparent at once.

A dozen policemen were there, and only a scant patrol kept the crowd in check.

Soon after 6 all knew Hattie must soon leave the court house. The crowd expected her to leave by the regular entrance to the sheriff's office, and there were relatively few banded below the jail across the street—mostly those who could find no room elsewhere.

LODGE IS CONFIDENT

Had Conference With His Lieutenants Today

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The managers of the senatorial campaign of Henry Cabot Lodge, who is seeking a fourth term, today expressed themselves as well pleased with the situation and today Senator Lodge called in some of his lieutenants and prepared to leave for Washington to take up his regular duties there next week.

The latter made public today at the Lodge headquarters from Fenway Justice, Moody of the supreme court, to Representative Wells of Haverhill, commended the public services of Mr. Lodge, who Mr. Moody said, was one of the best equipped men in public life and in his opinion the most competent legislator in the country.

In his business office on Oliver street, from which Governor-elect Eugene Foss is conducting his campaign against Senator Lodge, there was no sign of any slackening in the efforts to arouse public sentiment against the senator from Massachusetts. Mr. Foss declared today that he was still receiving letters, telegrams and telephone calls commending his attitude. He will start for the Cape tomorrow to begin a three days' speaking tour and said today that he expected to visit other localities before his inauguration on Jan. 5th.

300 DOCKMEN DROWNED

ASTRAKHAN, Russia, Nov. 28.—During a sudden tempest in the Caspian sea today a landing stage on which were 300 Persian dock workers was dragged from its moorings and swept out to sea. The storm was so violent that attempts at rescue were futile and all hope that any of the men will be saved has been abandoned.

Scores of ships, several with their crews on board, were sunk at their moorings at different Caspian coast towns.

Seven towns along the coast were flooded, the inhabitants in hundreds of cases being forced to take refuge in haystacks. The plight of the sufferers is pitiable, as intense cold has added to the general misery.

A number of steamers have been sent from this port to aid the sufferers of the storm.

ONLY ONE DRUNK

Before Judge Hadley at Today's Session

It was quiet in police circles yesterday, one single drunk being arrested during the whole day. He was brought before Judge Hadley this morning, and fined $2.

William J. Ward pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on Sarah F. Greening.

The latter made a statement to the effect that on November 15th Ward followed his wife and herself as far as his wife's home in Court street; that he made his way into the house through a window and then with his fist struck the complainant on the nose and forehead. The defendant's wife corroborated the testimony of Miss Greening.

Ward denied striking the complainant.

He said that he has been living apart from his wife for some time, and that he entered her home just to tell her to keep away from this Greening woman.

After summing up the evidence, the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15.

George Macaronis, arrested on a charge of gaming on the Lord's day, entered a plea of not guilty.

Last Sunday a squad of police officers made a raid in a tenement in the rear of 479 Market street. Seven Greeks were sent to headquarters on a charge of gaming on the Lord's day.

Three of these players claim that Macaronis was with them, but for some reason or other he was allowed to go.

Sergeant Duncan, Officers Grady and Fox, testified that when they entered the house last Sunday and found the seven men playing a hot game of cards the defendant was coming out of another room. Macaronis stated that he went in the house to buy some beer because he knew that liquor was being sold there. He did not know that a game of cards was going on until he entered the house, and he denied taking part in that game. The court found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10.

The defendant appealed and he was held in $200 for superior court. J. J. Hennessy appeared for the defendant.

The case of Jan Machnevich, charged with intent to commit a felonious assault on Mrs. Eva Markelova, was heard before Judge Hadley this morning.

The defendant admitted striking the woman on the mouth, but denied attempting to commit a felonious assault. The court found the defendant guilty of assault and battery and ordered him to pay a fine of $25.

John Sokolinsky was found guilty of assault and battery on Stanislaw Jankowski and ordered in $500 for the superior court.

This assault, which is of a serious nature, took place at a wedding celebration held in a house on Davidson street on November 20th.

It seems that the defendant after indulging in beer, struck the complainant over the head with a glass, then made good his escape. Officer Petrie, who was called in the house, found Stanislaw lying on the floor with a gash in his head and all covered with blood.

The dazed man was sent to the hospital. Later on the same night, Officer Petrie arrested the defendant in his room in Bent's court.

The complainant underwent an operation.

Mackenzie Wrathful ELOPING COUPLE

Over the Recount of Votes Cast for Alderman

Mr. Bergeron, the Defeated Candidate, Did Not Ask Recount but Other Candidates Did and MacKenzie Sees a Drive Against Him

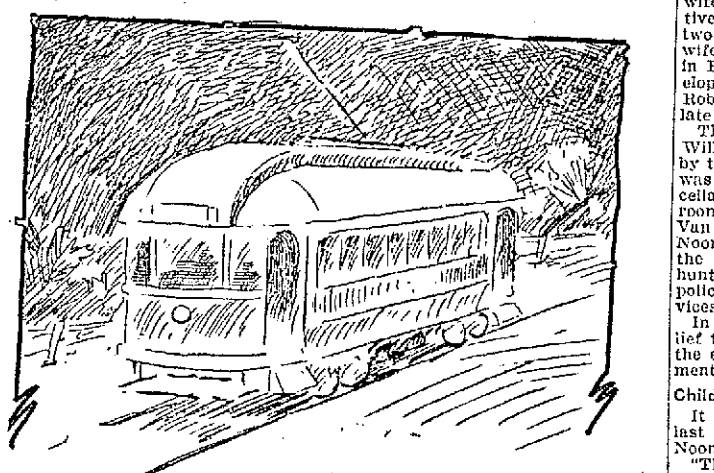

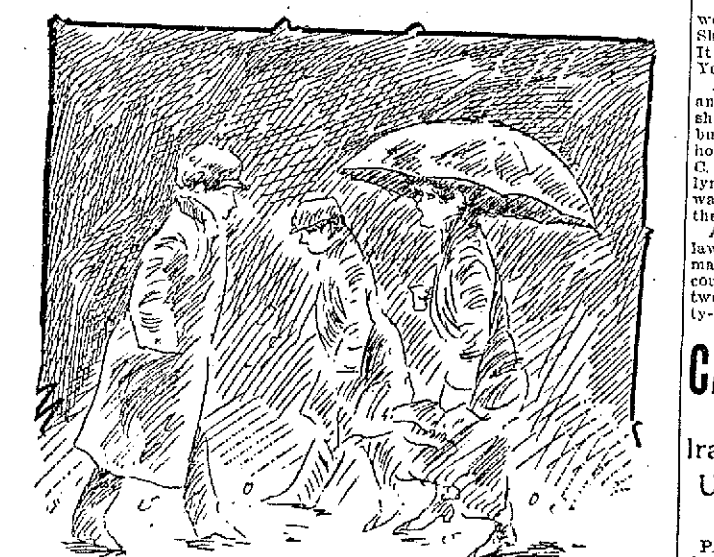

The recount that was begun yesterday by the board of registrars was resumed this forenoon. The councilmanic recounts in wards 3, 9, 4 and 5 have been gone through with and there is no material change. The aldermanic recount, thus far, shows a gain of one vote for Bergeron over MacKenzie in wards 3 and 9.

The petition for the recount in the case of Mr. Bergeron was a little out of the ordinary, inasmuch as it was not asked for by Mr. Bergeron himself, but by others whose names appear on the republican list for aldermanic honors, and who were successful in the primaries. Mr. Bergeron stated emphatically that he did not want a recount, and the fact that other republicans were asking for a recount is not very pleasing to Mr. MacKenzie. The latter says that he did not fear the result of the recount, but he allows that inasmuch as Mr. Bergeron did not want it there was no reason why other candidates should ask for it. Mr. MacKenzie looks upon it as a sort of drive against him.

Special Meetings Tonight

Mayor Meehan has called special meetings of both branches of the city council for tonight. The meetings were called for the purpose of taking action on the $1000 recommended by the appropriations committee for a contagious and infectious hospital and also to take action on the ordinance creating a commission of four to have charge of the building. The chairman of the board of aldermen and the president of the common council will serve as a nominating committee to bring in names for the commission. The committee on appropriations will meet at 7 o'clock this evening and will consider the request of department heads for money to place them out for the rest of the year.

NORTHEAST STORM

THE FIRST REAL SNOW STORM

Started This Morning and Threatens to be Severe

We are in a regular "nor'easter." The rain began to fall about five o'clock this morning and with a change of wind towards the north, snow soon appeared and has continued since, leaving a coat of slush all over the streets. The schools were dismissed in the afternoon and very wisely, because it would have been foolish to bring the children out, as most of them would get their feet wet and be liable to catch cold.

The weather predictions forecast a severe northeast storm and intense cold so that it is quite likely that we are to have the first real storm of the winter season.

The street cars were somewhat retarded today but the schedule was followed as closely as possible. The company is prepared to meet the emergency and the snow plows are ready for action at any minute. The gutters of the street department were busy and their services were highly appreciated in keeping the crossings passable.

In all probability we are but in the beginning of what will prove to be a real old fashioned storm.

THE FRATERNITIES

Best Man Tells of Romantic Marriage

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—There was a thrilling Romeo and Juliet elopement early Sunday from the home of Frederick M. Blake, No. 337 West Eighty-fifth street, New York, if the story told here by Daniel M. Polsey, the best man at the subsequent wedding, is true.

Miss Ed May, the charming daughter of Mr. Blake, was married in this city yesterday to Howard T. Walker, son of William H. Walker of New York. And, according to Polsey, the elopement was accomplished after a heart-breaking but compulsory postponement.

It was all arranged, he says, that the young people should flee on Saturday and be married at 9 o'clock that evening by a justice of the peace in Stamford, with whom Polsey had made an appointment by telephone.

But at the psychological and romantic moment the sweethearts discovered that the bride's father was suspicious. Polsey said that a police guard had been placed about the house. Anyway, he saw a policeman pass by the house.

Love's Signal Code

The secret correspondence system known only to young folks in love arranged another plot, however.

Late Saturday night, according to Mr. Polsey, an upstairs window in the Blake home was softly raised and a fair but frightened face became visible to two apprehensive young men standing in the shadow below. Then a neatly wrapped bundle was slowly lowered on a rope to the eager hands of the young couple. Another bundle, and yet another, even in time of peril how could a bride go to her wedding without all her best clothes?

When the last precious package had been lowered the window was softly closed and the two figures below vanished heavily laden into the darkness.

In the silence of the very early morning, they returned and again lingered in the shadow. Soon a cloaked and muffled figure stole stealthily out of the front door. The next moment, all three were hurrying to the railroad station.

Was Nearly Caught, He Said

"While we were waiting for Miss Blake to send down her clothes," said Polsey to the justice who was to have married them, "a policeman came down the street. I thought it was all up. I know he saw me. So I put on a bold front and walked right up the steps as if I were going to ring the door-bell. The policeman went on by, and we were saved."

When they reached Stamford they were married by the Rev. John D. Stone, rector of St. Andrew's church. It is believed they returned to New York.

At the Blake home last night a woman who answered the door bell said she didn't know about the elopement, but that the young couple were at the home of Mr. Walker's uncle, the Rev. C. G. Walker, No. 35 Garden place, Brooklyn. When a reporter arrived there he was told that nothing was known of the affair.

According to Mr. Polsey, who is a lawyer, Mr. Blake's objection to the marriage at this time was because the couple were so young. The bride is twenty-two and the bridegroom twenty-four.

CAUGHT HIS WIFE

Irate Husband Breaks Up Elopement Supper

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 28.—A secret elopement supper interrupted by the wife's husband and Captain of Detectives Tracy, a hot battle between the two men, and the swooning of the wife when taken to the police station in Paterson, formed the climax of the elopement of Mrs. Jennie Noon and Robert C. Gary, from Wilkesbarre, late last evening.

The couple arrived in Paterson from Wilkesbarre in the morning, pursued by the irate husband. With Mrs. Noon was her seven-year-old daughter, Marcella, Gary and Mrs. Noon engaged rooms in a boarding-house at No. 171 Van Houten street. One hour later Noon arrived and engaged rooms in the Bellevue hotel, and started on a hunt for the elopers. He appeared at police headquarters and got the services of Captain of Detectives Tracy.

In the meanwhile, secure in the belief that they would not be discovered, the elopers decided to have an "elopement supper."

Child Tried to Make Truce

It was just after 9 o'clock, and the last course had been served, when Noon and Captain Tracy appeared.

"That's the man with my wife," shouted Noon, as he started forward. In the pitched battle that followed Gary was beaten quite badly.

Following the fight Mrs. Noon attempted a reconciliation and the daughter did her little part in trying to patch up a truce. But the father and his husband were deaf to their entreaties, and the couple were taken to police headquarters just as the night squad was receiving its instructions.

At the sight of all the bluecoats Mrs. Noon gave a shriek and lurched forward in Gary's arms, in a dead faint.

Gary gave his wife a dead faint. Mr. Noon said he was a brail manufacturer at Wilkesbarre, and was married eight years ago. He said his wife had met Gary while he was playing an engagement in Wilkesbarre with the "Topsy Turvy" company.

Had Fled Once Before

When the company left the city Mrs. Noon followed, but was brought back by her husband. She was infuriated with the young actor, and last Thanksgiving night, when she arrived at his home in the fashionable section of St. Mary's Park, he found it stripped of the furniture.

Jewelry and silverware also were missing. The wife had left a note behind, declaring her love for Gary, and saying she had taken their daughter with her.

"Do not look for me, for you will never find me," she wrote.

Mrs. Noon is an attractive woman, and is 24 years of age. She is said to be the daughter of a prominent judge in Stroudsburg, Pa.

EARL A. THISSELL, Commander

Post 42, G. A. R., and Its Present Commander

Hereafter The Sun will publish a series of pictures of society heads beginning with the Grand Army and giving with each a brief sketch of the society.

When the call to arms came at the opening of the Civil war the men of Lowell were among the foremost to respond, a fact of which the martyrdom of Ladd, Whitney and Taylor afford historic proof. After the conclusion of the war the Lowell men who survived the struggle were quite numerous. The companies which left town the front lost many members, while many returned with the scars of battle, some with empty sleeves or wooden legs.

It was to be expected that the men who had risked their lives on the battlefield would organize and accordingly the first post of the Grand Army of the Republic was formed at Springfield, Ill., in 1860.

The B. F. Butler, Post 42, G. A. R., of this city, held its first meeting January 20, 1868. The members had served in a great many regiments all over the country and had figured in practically every great battle of the war. The first place of meeting was in the old Mechanics hall in Dutton street and subsequently the post met at the corner of Market and Central streets, but finally shifted to Memorial hall, in which the meetings are now held on the first Wednesday of each month.

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, for whom the post was named, was mustered in as a comrade in 1863 and was interested in the Grand Army until his death. The members are yearly growing less in number but those who remain are still loyal to the Grand Army and as deeply as ever interested in the progress, prosperity and perpetuity of this republic.

The present officers of the post are: Commander, Earl A. Thissell; senior vice commander, John Harrington; junior vice commander, Thomas J. McDonald; adjutant, George E. Worthen; quartermaster, Chester S. Goodwin; surgeon, James F. McCarthy; chaplain, Charles E. Brackett; officer of the day, Peter Leclair; officer of the guard, John Daly.

The list of past commanders is as follows: George A. Marden, Alpha B. Farr, General Pike, Charles H. Kimball, Charles H. Richardson, Edward W. Thompson, John A. G. Richardson, Albert L. Pindar, George W. Hinton, Major Charles A. Stott, George W. Worthen, Frank B. Peabody, John J. Dolan, James H. Fulton, Gen. C. A. R. Dime, William H. T. Hayes, John Welch, Edward T. Rowell and George McIntire.

And Chauffeur is Held for Manslaughter

WORCESTER, Nov. 28.—By direction of Judge Utley, John C. Jeffords, Jr., son of a well known Worcester merchant, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in the central Worcester district court today at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of Miss Emma St. Martin of Leicester. Miss St. Martin was run down by an automobile operated by Jeffords at Cherry Valley, just outside of this city, on the night of Nov. 19, and subsequently died of her injuries. The testimony at the inquest indicated that Jeffords, who is about 21 years old, was operating his automobile at a rapid rate of speed.

BITTER EXPERIENCE

CREW OF LONE STAR WITHOUT FOOD FOR 48 HOURS

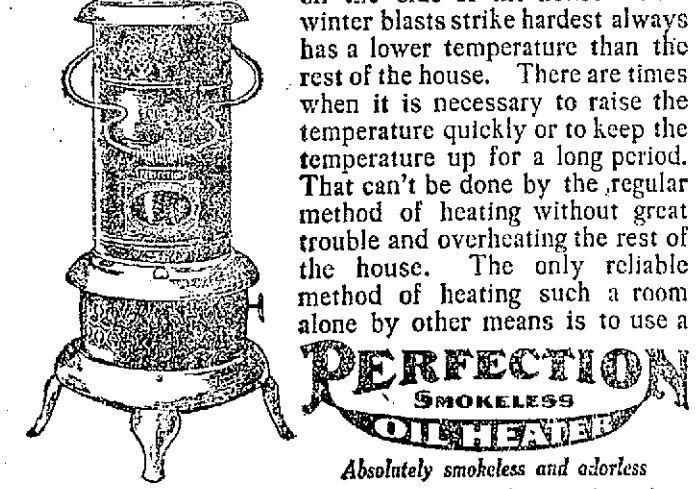

ST. JOHN, N. H., Nov. 28.—A striking tale of the wintry seas was told here last night by Capt. William Coffey and his two sons, Daniel and John, the crew of the little coasting schooner Lone Star who, without food and water, had been exposed for 48 hours to the storm raging in the Bay of Fundy, while clinging to the dismantled and water-logged craft, the decks of which were awash. The Lone Star was almost wrecked Saturday morning when she struck a submerged wreck off Old Proprietor ledge, clinging to their craft. Captain Coffey and his sons were at the mercy of the elements until they were rescued yesterday morning by the Canadian Pacific steamer Mount Temple, which brought them here last night.

ALL NIGHT CARS

There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a

STOCK MARKET

OPENED EASIER BUT IMPROVED AT MIDDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Opening prices of stocks were not much changed from last night, in contrast with the rapid fluctuations in yesterday's market. There was a minimum of gains but declines were more numerous with United States Steel under special pressure, at a decline of 1/2. Southern railway preferred fell 1 and Lehigh Valley, Kansas City Southern and Westinghouse declined 1/2. Lehigh Valley rebounded to 1 1/2 over last night and the general list stiffened.

The market advanced in a final session, but the fluctuations assigned to impotent fluctuations. Efforts to lift prices were met by fresh selling of American Smelting. Later prices stiffened again but the general action of the market was hesitating and uncertain. American Smelting declined 1/2. Southern railway preferred fell 1 and Lehigh Valley rebounded to 1 1/2 over last night and the general list stiffened.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Some men go back and subsequently come back while others go back and fall to come back, but Lew Dockstader and Carroll Johnson, bless their good-natured and care-free souls, have never gone back, but like old wine, only mellow with age and each year appear more attractive than before.

Lew and his melodious minstrels appeared at the Opera House last evening before a decent sized house, although a trifle top-heavy, and everyone went away happy as usual. The minstrel show is annually losing its identity but last night's presentation had a graceful blending of the old with the new that pleased mightily.

Instead of the old fashioned first part and after-piece Lew introduces the minstrels in a two-part musical comedy entitled "The Fun Hunt Club-Review." The play of the little plot and it's a plot that admits of a feast of fun handed out as only the inimitable Lew can hand it.

The opening scene presented the doings of the club on the eve of the departure of one of its members, who was to accompany the Roosevelt party to Africa. Prof. Lew Dockstader, despite his earnest protestations, is chosen as the official representative to assist in making the trip through the African jungles most successful. Here his departure he meets the voodoo man and is given a bottle of voodoo water, which causes him to dream out the doing of the proposed trip, and in this way he is saved the inconvenience of "going south." The dream develops, and with it many interesting as well as laughable incidents which carry the show and entertained through two hours of solid fun. The ending has a climax in the awakening of the professor and a recital of his supposed experiences.

In the opening act, the members of the club introduce numerous musical numbers by Messrs. Charles J. Raymond, Carroll Johnson, Eddie Master, Happy Nautil, Thomas McKenna, Harry A. Ellis and Charles F. Palf. Dockstader gives out a line of talk that is as funny as only a Dockstader can make it, and the finale is a presentation of the Animated Flag.

Among the song hits in the first part were: "The Wanderer," by Allan Campbell; "When a Boy From Old New Hampshire Loves a Girl From Tennessee," by Harry A. Ellis; "Patrick O'Hare," by Carroll Johnson; and "My Love is Greater Than the World," and the old favorite, "Sweet Sixteen," by Charles Falf.

Part two opens with a pretty sketch from "Pinkie," with pleasing music, and followed by "Through the Exciters" with Dockstader swimming a sea mountain high and talking the while. Then follows Negro Quarters on Chandler Island with Carroll Johnson and 30 imitator dandies in song and dances of the old plantation type.

Then came Lew Dockstader in his aeroplane giving his monologue, which abounds in local hits. The final part of the play represents a breakfast dinner at the Hunt club in honor of Prof. Dockstader's return. This part introduces the famous sextette from Lucia excellently sung by Messrs. Ellis, Falf, McKenna, Hughes, Smith, and Hannaford, and also Lewis F. Moly, the ragtime composer, and his celebrated chorus, "The Barber Shop Chord," are the real life of the evening. It was a good show throughout.

THE STAMPEDE

In speaking of "The Stampede," the Bangor, Me. Daily Commercial of Nov. 22nd says:

"The Stampede came to Bangor with no big advance reputation to sustain and the Bangor people who went to the Opera House Monday to see the play probably went more to while away the afternoon or evening, little expecting to see a first-class production at repertoire prices, but they came away surprised and delighted for the play was all that was claimed for it and a lot more. In fact many productions have come to Bangor with the stamp of Broadway approval on them that cannot come within a mile of the Stampede. They were presented even with all-star casts.

The play is one that is laid largely in the far west, among the Indian tribes of the desert country, and it has all the interesting situations that accompany such productions.

The company presenting the piece is all that can be desired. Miss Buckingham, as Wanda, is a beautiful woman with a very pleasing stage presence, and the ability to portray her role in an exceptionally able manner. Arthur Behrens, as Dick Travers, makes a quiet and forceful hero, while John Stepling, in the role of Senator Bobbs, keeps the audience amused with his characterization of the college man, just graduated, with a decided proneness for the latest slang. The other roles are in capable hands.

The production is exceptionally well staged, the second and third acts with reveal a rocky mountain top in the foreground and the sandy desert and distant peaks in the background, are masterpieces of stagecraft. One almost imagines he is right on the spot. There is every attention to detail, particularly the dust arising from the stampede of the cattle in the last act. It is a play that should be seen by the Bangor theatre-goers and deserves a crowded house at every performance.

"The Stampede" comes to the opera house tonight for three performances.

It would be hard to find a repertoire company presenting a line of plays equal to those given by the Klark-Urban company, which will appear at the Lowell Opera House for three nights and two matinees commencing next Thursday evening.

Klark and Urban believes that every play should be equally powerful and that each and every one should be a decided drawing power in itself. It is not the aim of the management to open with one particularly attractive play and then follow up a good impression with a series of unpalatable presentations. The opening bill Thursday evening will be David Higgins' great comedy drama, "His Last Dollar," with "The Girl From Out Yonder," "One Girl in a Household," "The Fatal Scar," and "Soldier," to follow. This exceptionally strong list of plays will be given entire with all special scenery and no local settings will be used from the opening to the closing bill. The following high class specialties will be introduced at each and every performance: Fred Bollinger, aerial artist; A. E. Tenay, comedy juggler; Robeta and Edith, bounding rope and slack wire; Marion Allen, acrobatic dancer; Marie Hodgkins, vocalist; Grace Leth, The Funny Old Maid and The Four Monarchs of Music, Klark-Urban and Schreiber Brothers. Seats are on sale.

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER

"The Chocolate Soldier," one of the most successful of last season's musical offerings, is marching toward Lowell, and will be on parade at the Opera House on Dec. 2-10.

Particular interest is felt in this opera, not only because of its fascinating Strauss music, but also because its libretto is based upon one of the wildest of the plays of the ever interesting George Bernard Shaw's, "Arms and the Man." Setting Shaw to music and in itself such a bizarre idea that it was scarcely credited, but when "The Chocolate Soldier" came to New York from Berlin where it originated, it was greeted with a chorus of enthusiastic praise and a year-round run at the Casino followed. It met the same measure of success in Boston, whence it comes after a run of two months.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

One of the most novel as well as entertaining sketches that has been presented at Hathaway's theatre this season is that entitled "His Japanese Wife," which Valerie Bergere and company are offering this week for the approval of the local theatre-going public. The playlet was written by Grace Griswold, and while a comedy, there is plenty of pathos interspersed. Miss Bergere is too well known to those who have attended theatres or follow the news of stage life to go into any detail, other than to say that she is a dainty young lady, with an excellent stage appearance and a marvelous impersonation of the Japanese.

"O Chicksa Sen," Madame Darling, is the part portrayed by Miss Bergere, and is the wife of "Senator Henry Joseph Hallenberg," which part is taken by Herbert Warren. "Hallenberg" met the dainty Japanese miss and immediately fell in love with her and the pair were married by a justice of the peace, the senator believing that the oriental lady would not want to bother with a church wedding.

The pair take up housekeeping, but the wife continues to retain her Japanese customs and when her husband in away she orders the servants to take all the American furniture and pictures and other articles out of the room, and in their stead are placed the oriental articles, tea sets, smoking sets, mats on which to squat on the floor, and the like. She also orders her husband and salams to him every time he addresses her. She smokes her pipes, drinks considerable tea, and clings to her Japanese costume and ever has her fan in her hand. Her hair also is dressed in the Japanese fashion.

"The senator is deeply in love with his wife, but he is tired of endeavoring to Americanize her and is about to give the matter up as a bad job when his sister, "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," arrives at the house and the latter hits upon a plan whereby she believes she can make her brother's wife change her oriental habits. The secret of the sister's advice is to make the wife jealous and in this she proves to be a grand success. "Senator Hallenberg," at the request of his sister, becomes angered with his wife and threatens to send her back to Japan in order to marry the other woman, becomes jealous and decides to become Americanized and do as her husband desires. She does so, and dons an evening dress, French heel slippers and changes the arrangement of her hair.

The Japanese maiden's attempts to learn the English language are certainly amusing. She finds it very difficult to remember many of the words and phrases, but manages to keep plenty of English slang stored up, which she hands out at times much to the disgust of her husband and the latter's sister.

Mr. Herbert Warren as the husband plays his part in a capable manner as does Emma Campbell, as "Mrs. Sarah Gordon," the sister. The part of "O-Chicksa Sen," the maid, is taken by Katherine Kavanaugh, while Clyde Adler as "James," the servant, is good.

Richard Barry, Virginia Johnson and Company, present a burlesque on western life entitled "At the Mouth of the Crater," which takes the house by storm. The nature of the sketch cannot fail to produce laughter for during the course of the sketch some of the most ridiculous situations possible are presented. Mr. Barry portrays many parts during the action of the piece and his changes from one character to another are very rapid. Miss Johnson is the able assistant in the success of the production.

One of the features of the sketch is the scenic effects. Anita Diaz's monkeys—ten in number—almost human. They do all kinds of stunts, such as standing on their heads, turning somersaults, adding on each other's backs, jumping through hoops, while the grand finale shows the monkeys on the backs of a monk in a merry-go-round, while one monk is grinding a hand-organ.

Carl Randall gives a very interesting impersonation of Laddie Cliffe. He is a good singer and dancer and his every move is a picture. Lillian Lovier, singing comedienne, is there with the goods and delivers them. She is a sweet singer and has many new songs one in which she advertises a well known gum, being specially pleasing to the young men who generally occupy the front rows in the theatre.

Knox and Alvin in "Just for Jest" throws out all kinds of nonsense and please the audience. The Great Albino, a wire walker, does some hair raising stunts. The bill comes to a close with good motion pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Lad from Old Ireland" being shown at the Theatre Voyons today is a real Irish picture from start to finish. Its story can be duplicated hundreds of times right here in Lowell for it is one that shows how the pluck and industry of an Irish lad brings him to the front in time to save another's life, and in the process to win the love of a girl who has been raised by his friends. The portion of the pictures portraying the scenes in Ireland was actually photographed there and there is no picture yet shown that equals this in the accuracy of its stinging. "His Mother's Thanksgiving" is an excellent picture, telling of a dear old lady's visit to her city son. There are other interesting features on the bill and the musical features are very appropriate.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A fine show greeted the patrons of the Academy yesterday afternoon and evening. The "Telegraph Four" are a comedy quartet that entertain in a pleasing song and dance and have a variety offering that is well worth seeing. Brobst, the magic whistler, astounded the audience with his whistling solos and life-like sounds and imitations. There is a clever little playlet offered by Mr. and Mrs. Cortis. "The Tamer" is the name of the sketch and shows the awakening of a lion of his wife who has been raised by his friends. PARENTS DEAD

Ghastly Find of Two Children at Pawtucket

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 28.—Going to the room of their parents to awaken them today, the children of John T. Drals and his wife found their father and mother dead from asphyxiation, a partly opened gas jet still room. The decision of Medical Examiner Harold French was that both had come to their deaths by accident. The gas-cock was one that turned easily and it is believed that either just before retiring or some time during the night one of the couple touched it in such a manner as to allow the escape of the gas.

Brais was a mill operative 51 years old and came from Canada. His wife was 42 and was born in Vermont. Their son-in-law, George Paquin, who also lives in the house, called at his father-in-law's door when he was going to work at the Royal Weaving Co.'s mill, where Brais was a loom-fixer. Finding only some of the children up he went with them to Brais' room, where they discovered the room filled with gas and their parents dead. The doors and windows were closed but this was not unusual and everything pointed to the conclusion that the deaths were accidental. They leave eight children, one of whom is married. The youngest is 10 years old.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Announcement is made by the Wright memorial dormitory committee at Yale university of a gift of $5,000 from Mrs. John May, widow of the late secretary of state, for a memorial suite of rooms in the proposed dormitory in memory of Adelbert S. May of the class of 1883. Adelbert S. May was killed by a fall from a window of the New Haven house several years ago while back for a class reunion at Yale.

MRS. GEN'L TOM THUMB
At Merrimack Square Theatre All This Week

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mrs. Tom Thumb and her company of midgets, consisting of Count Magri, her titled husband, and his brother, the Baron Magri, appear at the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The trio is very entertaining and delightful, and the company will appeal to the children as much as to the older folks. The act in which the three mites appear, "The Enchanted Statue," is laughable and very interesting, involving several rapid changes of costume by Count Magri, who proves himself a very capable comedian.

Another act which stands at the head of its kind is Roman's Six Imperial Dancers. This company is composed of six young men, able dancers and first class singers.

First, the sextet, appearing in white funnel costumes, do a dancing and singing bit, then a quartet give a well sung melody of the newest popular songs, ending up with a bang-up voodoo show a-dance. Then comes a scarecrow dance by a duet, which is original, clever and highly amusing, and finally a duet and sextet dance in Spanish costume, which is a distinct hit.

Lawton, the juggler, has a very pleasing act, comprising juggling of tennis balls by two, three and the hand dozen. He also juggles in a scientific way all sorts of other articles and finally three real cannon balls.

Played and Russell, two clever colored comedians, a snappy young man and a comedienne with a sweet voice, make quite a hit in dancing, telling stories and singing some of the latest songs.

The Rosses very much please their audience with their illustrated songs. The bill will be presented continuously from 1 until 10.30 o'clock each day for the rest of the week. Mrs. Tom Thumb and her company appear every day at 3.30 and 8.30 p.m., respectively. On Saturday afternoon next, Mrs. Tom Thumb will hold a reception on the stage in order to meet the children in the audience, and will give souvenir portraits of herself to all.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin E. Reldy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public, me, January 1, 1910.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Nobody can hereafter graduate at the University of Chicago who has not a real moustache. Is that the sine qua non of graduation?

The sugar trust is threatened with dissolution. Any trust found guilty of such dishonesty as it has been convicted of deserves no better fate.

Even the "spitresses" are being taken in and fined in Boston. Where women claim equal rights with men they must assume equal responsibilities.

The need of compulsory arbitration is shown in Chicago where it is reported that 5000 babies are starving as a result of the garment workers' strike.

One side of the story is good till the other is told. Mayor Meehan will give the voters some light upon municipal matters in the next few days. Every voter should endeavor to hear him.

The city of New Bedford on election day will take a referendum vote upon the matter of adopting a pension law for city employees. It is estimated that the expense of such a pension law would soon run up to $50,000 a year, which is more than the city of New Bedford can afford for such a purpose.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson, governor-elect of New Jersey, is to take a hand in the election of a United States senator in that state. If he cannot defeat James Smith, Jr., a democrat, who served in the senate, he will support some other worthy democrat. Dr. Wilson has grown to be a power in the politics of New Jersey.

TO DISCUSS CITY CHARTERS

Ex-President Eliot will visit Lowell on Wednesday evening to give the citizens his views upon what is known as the Des Moines charter. He has been drawn upon for this same purpose by the cities of Haverhill, Lynn and several others. He is always willing to give his time to the elucidation of this important subject on which it seems that he is an expert, having made a study of it in order to be able to advise the cities upon what form of charter is most suitable to their needs.

Everybody interested in the question of charter revision should hear Mr. Eliot at Associate hall on Wednesday evening.

CONGRESSMAN HENRY GEORGE

Henry George, elected to congress, is being boomed for the ways and means committee. Mr. George is the son of the late writer and single tax advocate of the same name, whose writings and speeches are still fresh in the memory of many citizens of the United States. The young man is highly accomplished along the same lines. He has travelled extensively in almost every country in the world, and has studied economic conditions and systems of government and taxation. He would undoubtedly make a very valuable member of the committee on ways and means.

It will probably be the duty of Champ Clark or otherwise a committee of members to appoint the standing committees. It will, therefore, depend upon the appointing power whether Congressman George will have a place on this important committee.

THE NEWARK FIRE HORROR

That was a horrible fire at Newark, New Jersey, on Saturday, when twenty-five young girls lost their lives in a fire panic. It seems that they were cut off by the fire, and finding themselves trapped, jumped rather hastily from a window. They were thrown into a frenzied panic, and many of them did not wait for the fire or even for the smoke to overtake them until they jumped from the windows.

That is undoubtedly the natural impulse of young girls, and sometimes of men when they find themselves hemmed in by fire in an upper story.

When it appears that to jump means certain death, they should have sense enough to wait until the last minute or until they see no other resource left to avoid death in the flames. Had these young girls been a little more patient, in all probability they might have been saved, because the fire station was only a few doors from the building. It seems that the firemen could have got their ladders to the point where the girls were waiting to be rescued before the flames got up to the windows, but the girls in their frenzy did not consider this, and took the risk of jumping which in nearly all of the cases resulted fatally.

This should convey a wholesome warning to others who may be caught under similar circumstances. They should never jump until the flames are seething around them, and not even then if there is any other possible remedy.

It is a good plan, as Chief Hosmer has stated, when they find themselves enveloped in smoke to put their heads out of the window to avoid suffocation. It often happens that the smoke is sufficiently dense to suffocate long before the flames arrive.

Chief Hosmer says that the conditions that prevailed at the fire in Newark, New Jersey, could not be duplicated here in Lowell so far as the building is concerned, but as regards the panic there is no telling what a lot of girls and women or even men will do in case of excitement. That may be very true but the question arises, is there any building employing large numbers on the third or fourth stories, any hotel or lodging house in which there is a possibility of any considerable number being cut off by fire? A general survey of the city in order to determine these points in the light of the Newark disaster, might result in preventing disasters of the same kind in our own city.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

There was disapproval in Emporia, Kan., of the private manners of an opera singer who visited the city, and who was praised by the critics for her "bewitching manner and her sweet ways." That manner and those ways were confined to the stage, apparently, for the Emporia Gazette saw fit to publish on its first page a paragraph in display type setting forth how the singer "upset the calm demeanor of the hotel proprietors" by demanding beer and Turkish cigarettes, and, by calling the city a "country joint" when she did not get them. Her remarks of indignation to the operator in the peaceful Kansas exchange are declared to have been of a character that would have impressed the "fast reporter," who, at the recital, had "winked soulful on 'articulation' and 'clarity'."

A December wedding will be that of Miss Dorothy Lavinia, daughter of Thomas W. Lavin, who is to be married to Henry McCall, son of Congressman McCall. It is to take place at the Lawson estate, "Dreamworld," in Egypt, where there was a family gathering on Thanksgiving.

The Metropolitan museum of art at New York has secured another great art treasure by purchase in a famous painting by Paul Veronese, the subject of which is Venus and Mars bound by Love. The canvas is large and the figures life size, and is said to be of the quality of the Rape of Europa, only better preserved. Venus is shown on the left, her dark hair mane falling from her shoulders, her figure almost nude, her left arm resting on the shoulder of the god of war. Mars is in full armor, a rich purple cloak falling from his shoulder to his feet. A Cupid is binding the two together with a pink ribbon. In the background another Cupid holds the chariot and sword of the god. The picture was secured in London, where it was in the Winbourne collection until 1903, when sold to a dealer at Christie's. It was one of the masterpieces taken to England in 1793, when the famous Duke of Orleans collection was broken up. It had been one of the features of this since 1793. Before that it had been the property of Queen Christina of Sweden, who inherited it from Gustavus Adolphus, her father. He is supposed to have taken it from Prague in 1631.

OF ARIZONA'S CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 29.—The Arizona constitutional convention yesterday closed upon its last week, so far as the actual drafting for the constitution is concerned.

A determined effort was made by Chairman Ingram of the public service corporation committee to have the corporation clause provide for the regulation of all private corporations, but the convention decided to limit the legislative power of the state to public service corporations, and to building and loan, trust and insurance companies.

A measure prohibiting discrimination against any methods of healing was adopted yesterday. The initiative and referendum was adopted 56 to 6.

FOOLISH THINGS WOMEN DO

Women put ammonia into the water when washing their hair. This not only turns the hair grey, but has a deadly effect upon the hair roots. It makes the hair thin and lifeless. Any tonic or invigorator containing alcohol is also dangerous. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali, and danger of losing their hair. The best thing to use is a fine neutral soap, combined with Glycerin, Coconut Oil, White of Eggs, and Salicylic Acid. These are the ingredients used in Dr. Williams' Head Wash, which is an absolutely reliable preparation, because it does not contain any ammonia, alcohol or free alkali. It makes the hair soft and glossy and removes scales and dandruff. At drug stores, 25c and 50c.

HEARINGS GIVEN

Committee on Streets Met Last Night

AND PASSED UPON GRIST OF PETITIONS

Committee on Ordinance and Legislation Slammed Everything in Sight—No Three Year Terms For Superintendent of Streets or City Messenger

The committee on streets went a-viewing yesterday afternoon and last night gave hearings on several petitions for street improvements.

James Dow, Principal Wood of the Greenhalge school and others appeared in favor of the laying of a sidewalk of concrete or similar material abutting the premises of the Greenhalge school.

The committee also voted in favor of the petition of Jeremiah Moynihan and others, that a sidewalk of edge-stones and cinders be laid in front of his premises at 12 and 14 Marsh street.

Curis McEwan, Mr. Kappler and others favored the acceptance of Quebec street, from Maple street to London street, and the committee voted to recommend it.

The committee voted to recommend the petition of Robert Campbell and others, that edge-stones be laid on both sides of Anderson street.

Richard Bray wanted a sidewalk in Whipple street accepted and it was so voted.

Ordinances Voted Down

The committee on ordinance and legislation held a meeting last night and gave everything a slam that came its way. The first up was an ordinance requesting the approval of all plans of school buildings by the school department.

Alderman Connors thought no action should be taken in the matter until the inspector of schools and the superintendent of schools and the chairman of the school board could be heard relative to the proposed plans.

An ordinance amending chapter 39 of the city charter and providing for a three-year term for the superintendent of streets, and also an ordinance favoring a three-year term for the city messenger were acted adversely upon.

An ordinance to the effect that tax bills be made and sent out by the assessors' department instead of by the city treasurer was defeated. Another ordinance defeated by the committee was to the effect that for each place of real estate owned by an individual a separate tax bill should be made out.

SPEAR DEAD

ONE OF CHADWICK'S VICTIMS PASSED AWAY

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 29.—A. B. Spear, former cashier of the Oberlin National bank, looted by Cassie Chadwick of $200,000, or more, died suddenly here last night.

Less than a year ago Mr. Spear was discharged from the penitentiary at Columbus, after serving a seven year term for his share in the Chadwick swindle. Almost immediately he came to this city and began working for the Michigan State Telephone company. At the time of his death he was traveling auditor. His death followed an operation for appendicitis.

The charge on which he was convicted was concealing the condition of a national bank.

THREE KILLED ONE WAS KILLED AFTER SIX YEARS

Train Struck Crowded Surrey at Canton, O.

CANTON, O., Nov. 29.—Three persons were killed and two badly hurt when a Wheeling & Lake Erie train struck a crowded surrey shortly before 9 o'clock last night at the Maple avenue crossing. The dead:

MRS. JOSEPH H. MEYERS.

MORRIS RESS, 24.

JACOB RESS, 15.

The injured: Miss Fannie Meyers, daughter of Joseph Meyers, leg broken. Internal injuries, probably will recover.

William Levin, 13 years, scalp wound, may have fractured skull; probably will recover.

Miss Meyers and Morris Riss were to have been married Jan. 1. The party was on its way from North Canton to the city. There are no gates or watchman at the Maple avenue crossing, the train was making probably 20 or 25 miles an hour.

The surrey was almost squarely across the track when the train struck it.

The two lovers fell near together and the girl, when she recovered consciousness, crawled a few paces to where the dead body of her affianced lay. They were borne away together in the same ambulance. It is feared that the shock of Riss' death will prove too much for the exhausted strength of the girl.

LUCKY ESCAPE

BOY IN ROWBOAT IN STORM LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—An overgrown lad tossed on the troubled waters of Hell Gate last night for more than an hour, was twice capsize in his skiff by the wash of passing steamers, pulled himself out of the freezing cold river and was finally picked up unhurt by a harbor patrol and carried back to Ward's Island, where all the guards of the Manhattan state hospital for the insane had been looking for him since early afternoon.

Benjamin Sam 15 the lad and he is 15 years old. Yesterday afternoon he had under an overturned rowboat until after dark and then launched it into the swift tide without oars. He had a paddle, but it was useless in the currents that race through Hell Gate.

Without a light as he was, it is a mystery how he was not run down by some steamer. He was committed to the institution as insane some months ago.

PANAMA OBSERVES

HER INDEPENDENCE FROM SPANISH YOKE

PANAMA, Nov. 29.—Celebrations were held here yesterday in commemoration of Panama's independence of Spain, which was gained by the republic of Colombia, of which Panama formerly was a part, in 1913.

Sir Edwin Grant Durlis of the British India office is on the isthmus making an inspection of the canal. Horace G. Knowles, former United States minister to Rumania, who is on his way to assume his new post as minister of Bolivia, visited the canal yesterday. He declared that the canal was the world's greatest monument to human skill and endeavor.

STURGIS DEPUTIES

WILL GET PAY FROM THE COUNTIES

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 29.—That the applicants of deputies to enforce the Sturgis law, or any other state law, and the assessment of the costs upon the county in which such deputies act, is not in violation of the constitutional rights of such county, was the decision handed down yesterday by Chief Justice Emory. His decision was rendered in the case of Penobscot county, against whom the state treasurer, Pascal F. Gilmore, brought action to recover $20,000 to pay the expense of Sturgis deputies operating within its borders. In his rescript, Justice Emory says:

"The constitution does not plainly prohibit the legislature from imposing upon a county the expense of enforcing the laws of the state within that county and the power to do so has been exercised so long without question it must be held to be a constitutional power of the legislature, even if otherwise questionable."

Twin Sisters Struck by Locomotive

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Watching with tearful solicitude over her 14-year-old daughter Hester, who was brought home to her last night seriously injured, as the result of being struck by a freight train in East Boveet, Mrs. Antoinette Desfano, a widow, of 42 Williams street, Chelsea, has thus far been kept in ignorance of the fact that Hester's twin sister was ground to death under the wheels of the big locomotive. The condition of Hester is so encouraging as to warrant hopes of her recovery.

Mrs. Desfano has four other children living. She came to this country from Italy eight years ago.

Mary and Hester had started for home from the Everett factory where they have been employed, and as has been their custom, they took to the Boston & Maine tracks. When near the West Everett station, to avoid an express train, they stepped over onto the Boston & Albany tracks, which run parallel. Coming in the opposite direction was a freight train which neither of them noticed until it was right upon them.

Mary was cut to pieces, but her sister, who was struck a glancing blow, was knocked to one side of the tracks. She was picked up unconscious and sent to her home.

ELECTRIC WORKERS

HAVE SPLIT IN THEIR UNION IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—President James Kirby in his annual report to the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor at its annual meeting yesterday, advised all councils with which the Roid faction of the electrical workers is affiliated, to unseat this faction. He urged that all possible assistance be rendered the international electrical workers in reorganizing their union.

The split in the electrical workers was the cause of much discussion during the convention of the American Federation of Labor last week.

President McNulty and the so-called "Regulars" have the favor of the federation.

MUTINOUS CREW

LANDED IN IRONS IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The British freighter Clan McLean, from the Far east, came to anchor in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty yesterday with half of her crew, prisoners between decks. Her captain took on a batch of Spaniards at Gibraltar, to replace Lascars who had proved troublesome when they came in sight of America. They refused to work. The officers had to drive the mutineers back from the bridge by firing revolver shots over their heads.

Lowell Letter Turns Up in Nantucket

Lost in the mails for almost six years, a letter bearing a Lowell postmark, dated Dec. 23, 1904, and addressed to "The Misses Swain, 186 Congress street, Boston," turned up in Nantucket's postoffice yesterday.

The whereabouts of the letter all these years, is a mystery the mail authorities will have to solve. An attempt had apparently been made to deliver it in Boston, for the word Boston had been crossed out and Nantucket written in, and the letter mailed.

The Nantucket postoffice knew of no "Misses Swain" and the letter has, therefore, been returned to Lowell, its starting point.

Lion Fondles A Child

In Pittsburgh a savage lion fondled the hand of a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved.

A few doses cured our 1-year-old of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Joseph Bilodeau Died Suddenly Last Evening

Another sudden death occurred last night when Joseph Biledeau, aged 38, died at the Lowell General hospital after an illness of a little less than three hours. Biledeau, who was a stonecutter by trade, lost consciousness after reaching his home, 53 French street, shortly before 5 o'clock last night. Dr O'Brien was summoned and he ordered the patient to be removed to the hospital, where he died at 6.30 o'clock.

Lorenzo, Blanchette, aged 3 years, 6 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blanchette of 16 Gardner avenue, died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of his parents. The little one suffered from violent convulsions a month ago, but since then had been apparently well. Yesterday morning the mother on going to the child's crib found that he was dead.

Odd Pair of Stowaways Discovered in Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The strangest pair of stowaways ever brought to Boston arrived yesterday on the British tank bark Sunlight, which was towed up the harbor late in the afternoon and was taken to the pier of the Boston Molasses company at South Boston. They were Leonard Matthew, a negro giant, fully 7 feet in height, and John Jacob, also colored, who stands 4 feet 6 inches in his stockings. While the bark was taking on cargo

At San Pedro de Macoris, San Domingo, Matthew and Jacob, who belong in Macoris, stole on board and hid in one of the lifeboats. Matthew occupied about all the room in the boat and Jacob was squeezed into such a small space that he was uncomfortable.

The movement of the canvas cover of the boat as Jacob tried to ease his cramped body attracted the attention of one of the officers when the vessel was seven hours out from port. The boat cover was removed and everyone on board was amazed at the sight of the silent and huddled fugitives.

Jack said that Matthew was the strongest man in all San Domingo and that he could easily whip Jack Johnson. He is a skilled boxer, too, and it was said on board the vessel that he would win his passage to try and get a match with the champion heavyweight, Jack Johnson, who is a native of the United States. The sailors told of the modern feats of strength performed by the modern Hercules on the trip. After the two negroes were given something to eat they were set to work assisting the crew. Matthew spent his spare time pulling the great iron anchors and doing some of the remarkable feats of strength. Both showed the same bareness from the loss of their hair. They would be taken into the country and will be sent back when the bark leaves here. When told they would have to return they did not seem to mind it a bit. Matthew grinned as he was led to a

The Sunlight was 23 days on the passage up Cape Hatteras baffling winds and calms in the vessel's way. On Saturday her usual time. Off Hatteras she ran into a furious gale and before moderated a section of her sparker split, 10 feet long, was broken off. The distance from Macoris is only 1500 miles.

The Sunlight came around Cape Cod last Friday when the 60-mile-an-hour northeast gale was doing things outside. Captain Crowder edged his way into the bay and worked his vessel into comparatively smooth water about a mile from Wood End. There the bark received a sharp anchor cut yesterday morning and took her in tow.

The Sunlight brought in 375,000 gallons of molasses, which will be used for distilling purposes. She also had

AWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—One of a group of four well dressed men, apparently all Americans, was shot dead as he was walking through Harlem street today according to reports. The only known victim of the shooting, Vincent Biando, an occupant of a nearby apartment house on Manhattan street, on which the group had just emerged, the man was shot by one of the group, who was a white man, but there was nothing about the murdered man to identify him. His clothing was of good quality. The label of a Broadway clothier on his coat gave the police their only clue to work upon.

The authorities are seeking the dead man's murderers.

TAFT A PILGRIM

President Descended From One of Mayflower's Passengers

Was Presented Certificate of Membership of Society of Mayflower Descendants at Banquet in Washington Last Evening

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Taft, one of the Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower, and a certificate of membership will be given him by the Society of Mayflower Descendants at the 11th annual banquet of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia last night, the occasion being the celebration of the 290th anniversary of the signing of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower.

President Taft, it was recently learned, is a descendant of Francis Cooke, one of the Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower, and a certificate of membership will be given him by the Society of Mayflower Descendants at the 11th annual banquet of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia last night, the occasion being the celebration of the 290th anniversary of the signing of the compact in the cabin of the Mayflower.

Mayflower," said the president. "Time was when I thought those who came over in the Mayflower plumed themselves as belonging to the aristocracy of the nation. On the contrary, they have now that they showed a humility and proper spirit of republicanism and democracy."

Speaking of the reason why the landing of the Pilgrims was so important in the early history of the United States, President Taft said it was because the Pilgrims were among the first who "landed and stuck in that country of pleasant summer residences—New England."

"They showed the uses and needs of a written constitution," he continued. "They showed a great capacity for self-government, that, without making invidious comparisons, has lent moral fibre and moral duty to the whole settlement of the United States."

HANK GRIFFIN

DISLOCATED SHOULDER IN BOUT WITH O'KELLY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Hank Griffin, a giant negro from the west, whom Con. O'Kelly, Tommy Ryan's protegee, recently met in a slashing go at Ulster, had his shoulder dislocated in the second round of a second battle with O'Kelly here last night. The injury came during a hard clinch on the ropes. Griffin concealed the gravity of his injury from his seconds and went on for two rounds more, though in evident distress. Early in the fourth round, while O'Kelly was knocking Griffin about the ring, the negro's seconds threw up the sponge.

STILL BENEATH

DREXEL HAS NOT RECORD FOR ALTITUDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The national council of the Aero Club of America is credited by the New York American with finding that J. Armstrong Drexel is still beneath the world's altitude record for an aeroplane established at Belmont park by Ralph Johnstone, and that the corrected barograph reading of his flight at Philadelphia last Wednesday gives only 9450 feet against Johnstone's mark of 9714. Drexel has hitherto been credited with 9370 feet. The ink gave out in his barograph and he believed himself that he went higher than 10,000. It is understood that he will try again.

$150,000 GIFT

MRS. RUSSELL SAGE PRESENTS TO VASSAR

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 29.—President James M. Taylor of Vassar college, announced before the chapel exercises last night that Mrs. Russell Sage had presented Vassar with $150,000 for the construction of a new residence hall or dormitory. The gift was made two weeks ago but it was not until yesterday that President Taylor was given by Mrs. Sage permission to make it public.

The new building is very much needed, as a great many students are living off the campus.

Embezzler Tufts of the Rockport Bank Suicides

ROCKPORT, Nov. 29.—Appearing at the residence of former President Loring Grimes of the Rockport National bank, late yesterday afternoon, George W. Tufts, former cashier of that institution, who was under indictment for alleged misappropriation of the bank's funds and was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity, before being sentenced, called Mr. Grimes to the door and after a short conversation shot himself dead with a big Deringer revolver, dropping on the doorstep at Mr. Grimes' feet.

His act was so sudden Mr. Grimes had no opportunity to prevent it. With an abrupt move, the former cashier pulled open his coat, then his vest, aimed out the pistol and placed it firmly against his heart, fired one shot, which caused death almost instantly. Mr. Grimes summoned Dr. A. M. Tupper and then the police. The body was taken to an undertaker's and the suicide's widow and son were notified.

Mr. Grimes' wife was Tufts' aunt. The Grimes home, at Main and Glenview streets, is only a few minutes' walk from the Tufts residence. Mr. Tufts left town yesterday morning, without telling anybody where he was going. He returned on a late afternoon train and walked to the Grimes house, coming from the direction of Gloucester.

Mr. Tufts was 52 years old. For 25 years he had been one of the most prominent figures in Rockport. He came into the Rockport National bank from the cotton mill and worked up to cashier, although the salary paid never exceeded $1000 annually. He took an active part in the town affairs and was a ready, snappy debater. About ten years ago he was elected town treasurer, which position he held for two years. For one year he was a selectman. During that period he had a controversy with Chief of Police John Sullivan, exacting a stringent enforcement of the liquor law and personally assuming control of the force.

Mr. Tufts lived simply and his only fads were chicken raising and gardening. Although a severe man in his criticism of others, he had always been a personal integrity and his arrest last July on a charge of defalcation took the town by surprise.

COURT ON TRAIN

JUDGE THORNTON HEARD CASE ON THE WING

MONTECELLO, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Passengers on a train between Port Jervis and Binghamton yesterday were treated to an odd scene when W. L. Thornton, judge and surrogate of the county, held a surrogate court between these two points as the train was on its way.

Judge Thornton had made arrangements to hear the will case of the late George W. Gould of Long Eddy, and when he was called suddenly to Binghamton he decided to hold court on the train.

Accordingly the Gould heirs and their attorneys joined him at Port Jervis and by the time the train had left the station the party was in the midst of the proceedings, which continued to within short distance of Binghamton. Judge Thornton promised to give a decision within two weeks. The value of the estate is about $200,000.

STOWAWAYS

CAPTURED ON FRUIT VESSEL AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 29.—Suspected of attempting illegally to enter this country, two Chinese stowaways were found yesterday by immigration officials hiding in a cargo of bananas in the hold of the Norwegian steamship Juan, which reached here yesterday from Port Antonio, Jamaica. They were taken to the local immigration department, where they will have a hearing. Captain Larsen and the crew of the Juan will appear before the officials to tell what they know about the Chinamen.

GRAHAME WHITE

WILL OPEN AVIATION SCHOOL IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 29.—Plans for an intercollegiate glider meet next June and the erection of an aviation plane at the Atlantic field in Squantum for the launching of gliders were discussed last night at the second annual meeting of the Harvard Aeronautical society at Harvard union.

Alvin Chalmers, manager of the recent Harvard-Boston aero meet, announced that Claude Grahame-White, the British aviator, would next summer open an aviation school in Boston.

SISTER'S SANITY

IS THE PRICE OF HOLT'S FREEDOM

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Sobbing bitterly as he answered the questions of his attorney John Holt, 23, of Roxbury, when arraigned in the superior criminal court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Sable E. Singleton, colored, declared to Judge Stevens that not only the sanity of his 19-year-old sister, but the welfare of his father and mother, who depend upon him for support.

The young man said his arrest had led to the breaking down of his sister's mental faculties, and that she is made treatment in an institution, haunted by the fear he would be incarcerated in jail. Both his parents, he told the court, are in ill health, and his father is unable to do any work.

Judge Stevens called the district attorney to the bench and conferred with him. Holt was excused until today, when he will know his fate.

ULSTER FACTION

Says It Will Not Obey Dublin Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 29.—With the dissolution of parliament yesterday all formalities preliminary to the election of a new parliament were completed. The proclamation of dissolution summoned the new parliament to assemble on January 31, 1911. Among the first of its members to be elected was Sir Arthur J. Balfour, the opposition leader, the liberals having decided not to contest his seat for the city of London. On the stock exchange, where regular dealings have been instituted in bets on the election, the feeling yesterday seemed to anticipate a reduction in the liberal majority. In Ireland the struggle is growing more bitter every day. A meeting of delegates representing every Ulster constituency was held in Belfast yesterday, at which a resolution was adopted on motion of 22 Presbyterian ministers, to draw up a solemn declaration refusing to pay rates or taxes imposed by a Dublin parliament or obey its decrees, while $50,000 was subscribed on the spot to organize the Ulster men into regiments and purchase arms.

At night a monster union demonstration was held at Ulster hall, Belfast, an overflow meeting of 20,000 people being held in the open air. Both aroused the greatest enthusiasm. Lord Londonderry said that American dollars enabled John Redmond to hold Aquilith in the hollow of his hand. If he said, it might be found that Ulster would utterly decline obedience to the law.

Sir Edward Carson, former solicitor-general, and Conservative M. P. for Dublin, said they never would consent to their country being sold for American dollars.

Walter Hume Long, Unionist M. P. for Strand, spoke in the same strain, and other speakers advocated stern resistance to the law if home rule was forced upon Ulster.

The first independent woman suffrage candidate is announced in the person of a prominent advocate, William Morris, who will contest a division of Glasgow. The socialist party has decided to run a third candidate in Patterson, thus seriously endangering John Burns' chance of reelection.

Suffragists created serious disturbances at a meeting at Lambeth last night at which Winston Spencer Churchill was speaking. After several men had been thrown out Mr. Churchill

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

TAFT WRITES MESSAGE

But Finds Time to Relate a Good Joke

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Taft has been exceedingly busy the past few days working on his message to congress. In the few leisure moments he has had, however, he has been telling a story on himself. It happened at Richmond the other day, "I always enjoy going to Richmond," said the president. "They have a way of making you feel perfectly at home and it is simply because they have the greatest respect for the presidency and the man who happens for the time being to fill the office. There is not a bit of politics in the reception they give you. I know this absolutely."

The studies at the school were resumed yesterday after the Thanksgiving holidays. It is expected that the new building will be occupied soon after Christmas. Carroll Bros. are now at work on the steam piping.

The injured woman was removed to Mercy hospital and Fontana was taken into custody by the police.

While the shooting is considered by acquaintances of the participants to have been accidental, the police will hold Fontana pending further inquiry. It was found that the revolver contained five loaded shells aside from the one that was discharged, and the police will try to determine why loaded shells were placed there instead of blank cartridges.

CHARTER REFORM

Labor Unions Represented on Committee

Shall the police powers now vested in the license commission be transferred to a municipal council? This question was discussed at a meeting of the committee of sixty on charter revision at a meeting held last night, and the question was answered in the affirmative. The question was raised at a previous meeting.

Another question discussed had to do with the office of purchasing agent and it was decided that the new charter should provide a purchasing department, but that the agent should be elected by the majority vote of the municipal council instead of, as now, by the public.

Three non-legal members were added to the drafting committee. Those added were Messrs. Michael Lee, Charles Anderson and Walter H. Howe.

JACK JOHNSON

DENIES THAT HE IS SUFFERING FROM BREAKDOWN

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 29.—Heavyweight Champion Jack Johnson arrived in town yesterday from the east. He was met at the Lake Shore depot by a number of friends and, in one round, denied that he is suffering from a mental breakdown, that he has quit the show business for good, or that he has any match in sight.

His negations were followed by positive assertions that he will go back into the theatrical business early in January, is in excellent health, and ready to bet $1000 that Walter Monahan, a protégé he brought out of the west some time ago, can beat any of the heavyweights who want his game, especially Cotton.

When asked about the reports that he had been offered a $15,000 or $20,000 purse for a match with either Jeanette or Sam Langford, to be fought on the other side of the Atlantic, the big negro ridiculed the stories of the offer.

LONG AND SHORT HAUL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The whole question as to the extent of the application of the long and short haul railroad rates to the interstate commerce act was discussed at a conference of the interstate commerce commissioners yesterday.

The questions arise under the fourth section which were passed just before the adjournment of the last session of congress and counsel for many railroads under a general notice, recently issued by the commission, were present yesterday to explain their views to the commission. The conference did not bear upon the merits of any particular application or class of applications for relief under the fourth section but had to do with the meaning and application of the section on certain points.

George E. Patterson, counsel for the New England railroads, who traced the development of the fourth section of the amended law from the time of the passage of the original act to the closing of the last session of congress, and Fred Wood, counsel for the St. Louis and San Francisco and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroads, were the first attorneys heard. Counsel contended that section four had no application to the import and export of the import and export traffic rate was not to be considered with the local and domestic rates and that the through charge for such traffic was not a matter over which the commission had entire jurisdiction. They contended that the rate from foreign port to an intermediate port must be considered with the other rates that make up the through rate and this through rate must be considered in connection with other through rates.
